

MACROECONOMICS

Introduction

The study of the economy as a whole is called macroeconomics. It deals with the aggregate behavior of the economy, including the production, distribution, and consumption of goods and services. Macroeconomics is concerned with the overall performance of the economy, such as the rate of growth, the level of employment, and the price level.

Aggregate Demand

Aggregate demand (AD) is the total demand for final goods and services in an economy. It is the sum of the demand for goods and services by households, businesses, the government, and foreign countries. The AD curve is downward-sloping, indicating that as the price level falls, the quantity of goods and services demanded increases.

Aggregate Supply

Aggregate supply (AS) is the total supply of final goods and services in an economy. It is the sum of the supply of goods and services by households, businesses, the government, and foreign countries. The AS curve is upward-sloping, indicating that as the price level rises, the quantity of goods and services supplied increases.

Short-Run Aggregate Supply

Short-run aggregate supply (SRAS) is the total supply of final goods and services in an economy in the short run. It is the sum of the supply of goods and services by households, businesses, the government, and foreign countries. The SRAS curve is upward-sloping, indicating that as the price level rises, the quantity of goods and services supplied increases.

Long-Run Aggregate Supply

Long-run aggregate supply (LRAS) is the total supply of final goods and services in an economy in the long run. It is the sum of the supply of goods and services by households, businesses, the government, and foreign countries. The LRAS curve is vertical, indicating that the quantity of goods and services supplied is independent of the price level.

Phillips Curve

The Phillips Curve shows the relationship between the rate of change in the price level (inflation) and the rate of change in the unemployment rate. It is a downward-sloping curve, indicating that as the rate of change in the price level increases, the rate of change in the unemployment rate decreases.

Monetary Policy

Monetary policy is the policy of the central bank regarding the money supply and the interest rate. It is used to achieve the goals of the economy, such as the rate of growth, the level of employment, and the price level.

Fiscal Policy

Fiscal policy is the policy of the government regarding the tax and spending. It is used to achieve the goals of the economy, such as the rate of growth, the level of employment, and the price level.
