Special Topics Groups presents a continuum of different types of groups used to treat people with interpersonal and developmental issues such as grief, substance abuse, depression, and others. Each chapter in this section provides definitions and descriptions of the issues along with theoretical and empirical support. Finally, Critical Issues and Emerging Topics attempts to reflect the zeitgeist and provide a glimpse into group interventions for the future. Emerging issues such as online groups, prevention groups, and peer-led mutual help groups receive careful attention and analysis. The Handbook of Group Counseling and Psychotherapy, the first reference devoted to this emerging and rapidly growing field, is essential for academics, researchers, professionals, and librarians serving the group therapy community. There is no similar reference available, and it will prove a landmark volume for years to come.

rather than social structural factors particularly in cultures where there is relative gender equality Dutton argues that personality disorders in either gender account for better data on IPV His findings also contradict earlier views among researchers and policy makers that IPV is essentially perpetrated by males in all societies Numerous studies are reviewed in arriving at these conclusions many of which employ new and superior methodologies than were available previously After twenty years of viewing IPV as generated by gender and focusing on a punitive law and order approach Dutton argues that this approach must be more varied and flexible Treatment providers criminal justice system personnel lawyers and researchers have indicated the need for a new view of the problem one less invested in gender politics and more open to collaborative views and interdisciplinary insights Dutton's rethinking of the fundamentals of IPV is essential reading for psychologists policy makers and those dealing with the sociology of social science the relationship of psychology to law and explanations of adverse behaviour Play Therapy with Adolescents Loretta Gallo-Lopez, Charles E.
