Barab, Kenneth E. Hay, Nancy Butler Songer, Daniel T. Hickey, 2017-09-05 William Wordsworth 1770 1850 needs little introduction as the central figure in Romantic poetry and a crucial influence in the development of poetry generally This broad ranging survey redefines the variety of his writing by showing how it incorporates contemporary concepts of language difference and the ways in which popular and serious literature were compared and distinguished during this period. It discusses many of Wordsworth's later poems comparing his work with that of his regional contemporaries as well as major writers such as Scott. The key theme of relationship both between characters within poems and between poet and reader is explored through Wordsworth's construction of community and his use of power relationships. A serious discussion of the place of sexual feeling in his writing is also included.

The Struggle for Identity in Today's Schools Patrick M. Jenlink (Ed), Faye Hicks Townes, 2009-05-16

The Struggle for Identity in Today's Schools examines cultural recognition and the struggle for identity in America's schools. In particular, the contributing authors focus on the recognition and misrecognition as antagonistic cultural forces that work to shape and at times distort identity. What surfaces throughout the chapters are two lessons to be learned in relation to identity. The first lesson is that identities and the acts attributed to them are always forming and re-forming in relation to historically specific contexts and these contexts are political in nature, i.e., defined by issues of diversity such as race, ethnicity, language, sexual orientation, gender, and economics. The second lesson presented by the authors is that identity forms in and across intimate and social contexts over long periods of time. The historical timing of identity formation cannot simply be dictated by discourse. The identities posited by any particular discourse become important and a part of everyday life based on the intersection of social histories and social actors. Importantly, the social/cultural use of identities leads to another way of conceptualizing histories, personhoods, cultures, and their distributions over social and political groups.

Language, Culture, Identity and Citizenship in College Classrooms and Communities Juan C. Guerra, 2015-10-05

Language Culture Identity and Citizenship in College Classrooms and Communities examines what takes place in writing classrooms beyond academic analytical and argumentative writing to include forms that engage students in navigating the civic, political, social, and cultural spheres they inhabit. It presents a conceptual framework for imagining how writing instructors can institute campus-wide initiatives such as Writing Across Communities that attempt to connect the classroom and the campus to the students' various communities of belonging, especially students who have been historically underserved. This framework reflects an emerging perspective, writing across difference, that challenges the argument that the best writing instructors can do is develop the skills and knowledge students need to make a successful transition from their home discourses to academic discourses. Instead, the value inherent in the full repertoire of linguistic, cultural, and semiotic resources students use in their varied communities of belonging needs to be acknowledged, and students need to be encouraged to call on these to the fullest extent possible in the course of learning what they are being taught in the writing classroom. Pedagogically, this book provides educators with the rhetorical, discursive, and literacy tools needed to implement this approach.

Handbook of Research on Teaching the English Language Arts Diane Lapp, Douglas Fisher, 2011-01-18

Now in its third edition, the Handbook of Research on Teaching the English Language Arts, sponsored by the International Reading Association and the National Council of Teachers of English offers an integrated perspective on the teaching of the English language arts and a comprehensive overview of research in the field. Prominent scholars, researchers, and professional leaders provide historical and theoretical perspectives about teaching the language arts, focus on bodies of research that influence decision making within the teaching of the language arts, explore the environments for language arts teaching, reflect on methods and materials for instruction. Reflecting important recent developments in the field, the Third Edition is restructured, updated, and includes many new contributors. More emphasis is given in this edition to the learner, multiple texts, learning and sharing one's knowledge. A Companion Website new for this edition provides PowerPoint slides highlighting the main points of each chapter.

Cultural Constructions of Identity Luis Urrieta, George W. Noblit, 2018. Cultural Constructions of Identity initiates the effort to allow for qualitative and ethnographic studies to speak to identity theory collectively. Further, while the studies synthesized in this book look at various intersections of race and ethnicity with respect to gender, age, class, and sexuality, Urrieta and Noblit implore readers to consider what these studies reveal about identity and identification theory itself.

Experientia, Volume 2 Frances Flannery, Colleen Shantz, Rodney Werline, 2012. This collection of essays continues the investigation of religious experience in early Judaism and early Christianity begun in Experientia Volume 1 by addressing one of the traditional objections to the study of experience in antiquity. The authors address the relationship between the surviving evidence which is textual and the religious experiences that precede or ensue from those texts. Drawing on insights from anthropology, sociology, social memory theory, neuroscience, and cognitive science, they explore a range of religious phenomena including worship, the act of public reading, ritual, ecstasy, mystical ascent, and the transformation of gender and of emotions. Through careful and theoretically informed work, the authors demonstrate the possibility of moving from written documents to assess the lived experiences that are linked to them. The contributors are István Czachesz, Frances Flannery, Robin Griffith Jones, Angela Kim Harkins, Bert Jan Lietaert, Peerbolte, John R. Levison, Carol A. Newsom, Rollin A. Ramsaran, Colleen Shantz, Leif E. Vaage, and Rodney A. Werline.

Youth, Identity, and Digital Media David Buckingham, 2008. The contributors explore how young people use digital media to share ideas and creativity and to participate in networks that are small and large, local and global, intimate and anonymous. They look at the emergence of new genres and forms from SMS and instant messaging to home pages, blogs, and social networking sites. They discuss such topics as girl power online, the generational digital divide, young people and mobile communication, and the appeal of the digital publics of MySpace, considering whether these media offer young people genuinely new forms of engagement, interaction, and communication.

BOOK JACKET Common Ground, Contested Territory Mark A. Clarke, 2007. This book contains thought-provoking essays on teaching and learning. Who is in charge of lesson plans and of organizing classroom activities? Who places students in classes? Who selects the books and the tests? How are students evaluated, and who determines this? What weight does teacher opinion have in decisions about student progress in school? Teachers should have the final say in all of these cases, and their opinion should weigh heavily in all of them yet this is not the reality for today's teachers. Current educational practices driven by a confluence of social and political issues including testing policies seem to be influencing teaching and learning more than teachers themselves. The essays in this book consider many serious issues facing today's teachers and urge teachers to seek common ground with others in the field of education. The book also urges teachers to become reflective practitioners seeing themselves as theorists, philosophers, action researchers, and political activists.

Common Ground, Contested Territory is an inspiring book for all teachers.

Narratives of Place, Culture and Identity Anastasia Christou, 2006. Annotation: Christou explores the phenomenon of return migration in Greece through the settlement and identification processes of second generation Greek American returning migrants. She examines the meanings attached to the experience of return migration. The concepts of home and belonging figure prominently in the return migratory project which entails relocation and displacement as well as adjustment and alienation of bodies and selves. Furthermore, Christou considers the multiple interactions social, cultural, political between the place of origin and the place of destination, network ties, historical and global forces in the shaping of return migrant behaviour and expressions of identity. The human geography of return migration extends beyond geographic movement into a diasporic journey involving re-constructions of homeness and belongingness in the ancestral homeland. Transcending the Boundaries of Culture Charlotte Emma Van den Hout, 2007. Identity and the Young English Language Learner Elaine Mellen Day, 2002. Day education Simon Fraser U reports the findings from an ethnographic project that followed two cohorts of English language learners in mainstream Canadian primary classrooms from kindergarten through second grade to document classroom activities and practices and how these create possibilities for engaging in particular kinds of conversations. Distributed in the US by UTP Distribution. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc, Portland, OR.

Language, Culture and Identity in Applied Linguistics British Association for Applied Linguistics. Meeting, Richard Kiely, 2006-12. Language Culture and Identity is a collection of papers from the BAAL Annual Conference at the University of Bristol 2005. The thirteen papers by researchers from Britain and across Europe represent a range of research orientations within Applied Linguistics which connect in different ways with issues in culture and identity. Two plenary addresses from the conference by Roz Ivani and Srikanth Sarangi explore the themes of identity and culture in contexts of learning and of work. Papers addressing language planning and policy issues present recent analyses of francophone identity in Canada and Sami identity in Finland. The issues of culture and identity in writing are explored in different papers from the perspective of identity construction in academic writing discipline, cultures in higher education contexts, the consequences of these for interdisciplinary writers and how writers construct audience identity through the linguistic choices they make. Empirical studies of language learning and teaching are also represented with papers on Processing Instruction and Intercultural Pragmatics. The themes of identity and culture in these papers connect a range of sub disciplines within Applied Linguistics and also connect knowledge building in Applied Linguistics with pervasive themes in research across the social sciences into the ways people as individuals and in communities understand shape and represent their experiences of learning and work

Health and Identity in Egypt Hania Sholkamy, Farha Ghannam, 2004

Four anthropologists argue the relevance of bodily experiences and conditions for the understanding of social processes in Egypt today Based on current ethnography that describes beliefs and practices concerning spiritual health physical beauty infertility and physical health the authors engage with the creation of identity in both urban and rural Egyptian settings Each study attempts to transcend the limitations of health and ill health as simple physical experiences and to make explicit the social and political significance of such conditions and processes Throughout the studies Egyptian citizens express their locations cultures identity and beliefs through their enactment of physical conditions and through their many quests for therapies The consideration of available medical resources and the strategic investments undertaken to utilize them provide ample commentary on the social situation of individuals and the changing dynamics of Egyptian society The focus of this volume is on health and beauty but its contribution lies firmly within the tradition of modern social analysis and critique
