Research Methodology: A Guide for Researchers In Agricultural Science, Social Science and Other Related Fields Pradip Kumar Sahu, 2013-04-04 This book is the outcome of more than 20 years of experience of the author in teaching and research field The wider scope and coverage of the book will help not only the students researchers professionals in the field of agriculture and allied disciplines but also the researchers and practitioners in other fields Written in simple and lucid language the book would appeal to all those who are meant to be benefitted out of it All efforts have been made to present RESEARCH its meaning intention and usefulness The book reflects current methodological techniques used in interdisciplinary research as illustrated with many relevant worked out examples Designing of research programme selection of variables collection of data and their analysis to interpret the data are discussed extensively Statistical tools are complemented with real life examples making the otherwise complicated subject like statistics seem simpler Attempts have been made to demonstrate how a user can solve the problems using simple computer oriented programme Emphasis is placed not only on solving the problems in various fields but also on drawing inferences from the problems The importance of instruments and computers in research processes and statistical analyses along with their misuse incorrect use is also discussed to make the user aware about the correct use of specific technique In all the chapters theories are combined with examples and steps are enumerated to follow the correct use of the available packages like MSEXCELL SPSS SPAR1 SAS etc Utmost care has been taken to present varied range of research problems along with their solutions in agriculture and allied fields which would be of immense use to readers Marketing Information Guide, 1959 Building Models for Marketing Decisions Peter S.H. Lee, Dick R. Wittink, Michel Wedel, Philippe A. Naert, 2013-06-29 This book is about marketing models and the process of model building Our primary focus is on models that can be used by managers to support marketing decisions It has long been known that simple models usually outperform judgments in predicting outcomes in a wide variety of contexts For example models of judgments tend to provide better forecasts of the outcomes than the judgments themselves because the model eliminates the noise in judgments And since judgments never fully reflect the complexities of the many forces that influence outcomes it is easy to see why models of actual outcomes should be very attractive to marketing decision makers Thus appropriately constructed models can provide insights about structural relations between marketing variables Since models explicate the relations both the process of model building and the model that ultimately results can improve the quality of marketing decisions Managers often use rules of thumb for decisions For example a brand manager will have defined a specific set of alternative brands as the competitive set within a product category Usually this set is based on perceived similarities in brand characteristics advertising messages etc If a new marketing initiative occurs for one of the other brands the brand manager will have a strong inclination to react The reaction is partly based on the manager's desire to maintain some competitive parity in the marketing variables
