

Examiner-approved IELTS tips

Brought to you by IDP Education - a proud owner of IELTS.

IELTS is accepted for study, work and migration in more countries than any other test. More than 7,000 universities, employers, professional registration bodies and governments around the world accept IELTS as evidence of your English proficiency.

Learning a language takes time and effort. This booklet is designed to help you prepare for your IELTS test and improve your understanding of the test format, but should not be seen as a substitute for language tuition and regular practice.

Listening

1. At the beginning of each section read the questions for that section carefully, before the recording starts. This will help you to follow the recording and identify the answers.
2. After completing a section, it is better to look ahead and read the questions for the next section than to worry about the last section.
3. You will sometimes have a list of options to choose from as answers. The possible answers may be listed in alphabetical order and not necessarily in the order you will hear them.
4. Be careful to note word limits. If there is an instruction: Write no more than two words, writing more than two words will mean you will receive no marks at all for your answer, even if some of the words are correct.
5. Try to listen for key words or synonyms (words that have the same or nearly the same meaning as another word) from the question to help you identify the answer. For example, in the recording you might

Listening test format, 30 minutes

The Listening component is the same for both versions of IELTS (Academic and General Training). There are four parts. You will hear the recording only once. A variety of voices and native-speaker accents are used.

Section 1: a conversation between two people set in an everyday social context (e.g. a conversation about accommodation).

Section 2: a monologue set in an everyday social context (e.g. a speech about local facilities or about arrangements for meals during a conference).

Section 3: a conversation between up to four people set in an educational or training context (e.g. a university tutor and a student discussing an assignment, or a group of people planning a project).

6. You may be asked to write down words that have been spelled out in the recording. In order to do this well, you need to know the English alphabet and how each letter is pronounced (for example, the letter 'W' is pronounced as 'double-u').
7. Listen carefully for words that indicate which stage of the recording you are listening to, e.g. 'firstly', 'my next point', 'to sum up'. These words will help you identify which question you have reached.
8. As you are listening to the recording, cross out options that don't fit. This makes it easier for you to find the right answer.
9. If you are writing dates as an answer to any question, remember that there are several correct ways to write them (e.g. 24th April, April 24 and 24 April are all correct).
10. If there are questions you cannot answer leave them and move on to the next question. This will help you to stay calm and positive. Go back to those questions at the end, if you have time.
11. After the last recording has ended you have 10 minutes to transfer your answers from the Listening booklet to your answer sheet. Don't make the mistake of copying these answers across to the answer sheet in between sections or you may miss important information about the next section of the test. Wait until the end of Section 4 before transferring your answers.
