Kriesel,2018-12-15 In Boccaccio s Corpus James C Kriesel explores how medieval ideas about the body and gender inspired Boccaccio s vernacular and Latin writings Scholars have observed that Boccaccio distinguished himself from Dante and Petrarch by writing about women erotic acts and the sexualized body On account of these facets of his texts Boccaccio has often been heralded as a protorealism author who invented new literatures by eschewing medieval modes of writing This study revises modern scholarship by showing that Boccaccio s texts were informed by contemporary ideas about allegory

gender and theology Kriesel proposes that Boccaccio wrote about women to engage with debates concerning the dignity of what was coded as female in the Middle Ages This encompassed varieties of mundane experiences somatic spiritual expressions and vernacular texts Boccaccio championed the feminine to counter the diverse writers who thought that men ascetic experiences and Latin works had more dignity than women and female cultures Emboldened by literary and religious ideas about the body Boccaccio asserted that his feminine texts could signify as efficaciously as Dante s Divine Comedy and Petrarch s classicizing writings Indeed he claimed that they could even be more effective in moving an audience because of their affective nature namely their capacity to attract entertain and stimulate readers Kriesel argues that Boccaccio drew on medieval traditions to highlight the symbolic utility of erotic literatures and to promote cultures associated with women
