DISPOSURE

It is important to gain consent before disposing the patient (see Section 1.2). The initial assessment should be completed by disposing as much of the patient as is necessary in the circumstances to facilitate full access for examination. To obtain the patient's dignity, it is often better to undertake a supervised examination through the clothing while awaiting a fuller examination in the privacy of the ambulance. Clinical circumstances, along with consent in some, will determine whether due to features or evidence of bleeding.

It also important to recognise the effect that the environment can have on the patient, particularly if it is cold, raining, very hot etc. The provider should seek to minimise the effect of the environment on the patient, for example, by keeping the patient protected from the elements.

Remember to repeat the primary survey regularly.

PHASE

The advice offered in this section relates to a multiple casualty situation but does not extend to involvement in a formal major incident declared by one or more of the emergency services.

The word triage is derived from the French verb "to sort". The purpose of triage in the emergency care situation is to prioritise the care needs of patients in patient situations where the emergency medical resources are low.

The result of this triaging process is that the most

VENTILATION SUPPORT (BAG-VALVE-MASK)

(Note: for providers, this is a two-man technique)

Effective cooperation of the rescuers by intubation and removal of carbon dioxide by automatic or fully controlled through a good rate, rhythm and depth of breathing. By using a reservoir an airway seal pressure between 12 and 20 litres per minute with sufficient volume to make the chest rise.

In some patients lying on the ground, the rescuer does not often move it to the abdominal muscles that are doing the work. The adequacy of this form of breathing needs to be further supported by feeling for airflow from the mouth, as there could be insufficient volume thereby resulting in ineffective ventilation.

When a patient fails to breathe, or is not breathing and/or the lungs, it may be necessary to
