Regulations , 1995-02 AIR CRASH INVESTIGATIONS: DEADLY MISTAKES The Crash of Air China Flight 129

George Cramoisi, editor, 2012-04 On April 15 2002 Air China flight 129 a Boeing 767 200ER operated by Air China en route from Beijing China to Busan Korea crashed on Mt Dotdae near Gimhae Airport Busan Of the 166 persons on board 37 persons survived the crash while 129 occupants were killed The Korean Aviation Accident Investigation Board KAAIB determined that the probable cause of the crash was pilot error due to poor crew resource management and lost situational awareness during the circling approach of the runway The Chinese investigation team pointed out that the Korean ATC was not fully licensed and mistakenly directed the airliner to descend to a wrong altitude and that the airport did not inform the crew of the weather conditions at the time A contributing factor was that the airline made all announcements in Chinese and English while most passengers were Korean

Aviation Information Management Barbara G.

Kanki, 2017-03-02 Operational information management is at a crossroads as it sheds the remaining vestiges of its paper based processes and moves through the uncharted domain of electronic data processes The final outcome is not yet in full focus but real progress has been made in the transition to electronic documents providing the aviation industry with a clear direction This book looks at a combination of industry initiatives and airline successes that point to the next steps that operators can take as they transition to fully integrated information management systems Although the route has not been fully identified it is evident that a key to successful long term efficient information management is industry wide cooperation The chapters are authored by a range of experts in operational information management and collectively they outline ways that operators can improve efficiency across flight ground and maintenance operations Considerations and recommendations are identified and presented addressing the following priorities Safety critical information and procedures Human factors Information security Operational information standardization The readership includes Airline flight operations managers and standards personnel Airline operating documents and publication specialists Airline information managers Commercial pilots
