Architecture and Politics in Nigeria Nnamdi Elleh, 2016-12-08 In 1975 the Nigerian authorities decided to construct a new postcolonial capital called Abuja and together with several internationally renowned architects these military leaders collaborated to build a city for three million inhabitants Founded five years after the Civil War with Biafra which caused around 1 7 million deaths the city was envisaged as a place where justice would reign and where people from different social religious ethnic and political backgrounds would come together in a peaceful manner and work together to develop their country and its economy These were all laudable goals but they ironically mobilized certain forces from around the country in opposition against the Federal Government of Nigeria The international and modernist style architecture and the fact that the government spent tens of billions of dollars constructing this idealized capital ended up causing more strife and conflict For groups like Boko Haram a Nigerian Al Qaida affiliate organization and other smaller ethnic groups seeking to have a say in how the country's oil wealth is spent Abuja symbolized everything in Nigeria they sought to change By examining the creation of the modernist national public spaces of Abuja within a broader historical and global context this book looks at how the successes and the failures of these spaces have affected the citizens of the country and have in fact radicalized individuals with these spaces being scene of some of the most important political events and terrorist targets including bombings and protest rallies Although focusing on Nigeria's capital the study has a wider global implication in that it draws attention to how postcolonial countries that were formed at the turn of the twentieth century are continuously fragmenting and remade by the emergence of new nation states like South Sudan

Kenzo Tange and the Metabolist Movement Zhongjie Lin, 2010-02-25 Metabolism the Japanese architectural avant garde movement of the 1960s profoundly influenced contemporary architecture and urbanism This book focuses on the Metabolists utopian concept of the city and investigates the design and political implications of their visionary planning in the postwar society At the root of the group's urban utopias was a particular biotechnical notion of the city as an organic process It stood in opposition to the Modernist view of city design and led to such radical design concepts as marine civilization and artificial terrains which embodied the metabolists ideals of social change Tracing the evolution of Metabolism from its inception at the 1960 World Design Conference to its spectacular swansong at the Osaka World Exposition in 1970 this book situates Metabolism in the context of Japan's mass urban reconstruction economic miracle and socio political reorientation This new study will interest architectural and urban historians architects and all those interested in avant garde design and Japanese architecture

Climatic Media Yuriko Furuhashi, 2022-01-24 In Climatic Media Yuriko Furuhashi traces climate engineering from the early twentieth century to the present emphasizing the legacies of Japan's empire building and its Cold War alliance with the United States Furuhashi boldly expands the scope of media studies to consider technologies that chemically condition Earth's atmosphere and socially condition the conduct of people focusing on the attempts to monitor and modify indoor and outdoor atmospheres by Japanese scientists technicians architects and artists in conjunction with their American counterparts She charts the geopolitical contexts of what she calls climatic media by examining a range of technologies such as cloud seeding and artificial snowflakes digital computing used for weather forecasting and weather control cybernetics for urban planning and policing Nakaya Fujiko's fog sculpture and the architectural experiments of Tange Lab and the Metabolists who sought to design climate controlled capsule housing and domed cities Furuhashi's transpacific analysis offers a novel take on the elemental conditions of media and climate change

Architecture, State Modernism and Cultural Nationalism in the Apartheid Capital Hilton Judin, 2021-04-07 This book is the first comprehensive investigation of the architecture of the apartheid state in the period of rapid economic growth and political repression from 1957 to 1966 when buildings took on an ideological role that was never remote from the increasingly dominant administrative legislative and policing mechanisms of the regime It considers how this process reflected the usurpation of a regional modernism and looks to contribute to wider discourses on international postwar modernism in architecture Buildings in Pretoria that came to embody ambitions of the apartheid state for industrialisation and progress serve as case studies These were widely acclaimed projects that embodied for apartheid officials the pursuit of modernisation but carried latent apprehensions of Afrikaners about their growing economic prospects and cultural estrangement in Africa It is a less known and marginal story due to the dearth of material and documents buried in archives and untranslated documents Many of the documents drawings and photographs in the book are unpublished and include classified material and photographs from the National Nuclear Research Centre negatives of 1960s from Pretoria News and documents and pamphlets from Afrikaner Broederbond archives State architecture became the most iconic public manifestation of an evolving expression of white cultural identity as a new generation of architects in Pretoria took up the challenge of finding form to their prospects and beliefs It was an opportunistic faith in Afrikaners who urgently needed to entrench their vulnerable and contested position on the African continent The shift from provincial town to apartheid capital was swift and relentless Little was left to stand in the way of the ambitions and aim of the state as people were uprooted and forcibly relocated structures torn down and block upon block of administration towers and slabs erected across Pretoria This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of architectural history as well as those with an interest in postcolonial studies political science and social anthropology Constructed Geographies Jean-Louis

Cohen, Vanessa Grossman, 2024-11-05 The first major retrospective to emerge from the archive of Paulo Mendes da Rocha shining important new light on his work One of the most acclaimed architects working in Brazil since the mid twentieth century Paulo Mendes da Rocha 1928 2021 began building in the 1950s championing an approach often associated with Brutalism but expanding well beyond it He is widely recognized for having transformed the urban imprint of S o Paulo His best known buildings include the Brazilian Museum of Sculpture remarkable for its engagement with the site and its daring structure the renovation of the Pinacoteca do Estado with audacious metallic inserts and outstanding private houses starting with his own In 2006 he became the second Brazilian architect after Oscar Niemeyer to win the Pritzker Prize This retrospective catalogue is the first major publication on Mendes da Rocha since the establishment of his archive at the Casa da Arquitetura in 2021 A team of international scholars provides a comprehensive view of the architect s trajectory and the collective dimension of his work along with thematic essays Mendes da Rocha s identity as a South American architect interested in the geographic relation between nature and culture is underlined The book s contributors explore his concern with the social and anthropogenic impact of the continent s development as well as its colonial past and postcolonial future The volume centers around twelve of his most important buildings and reprints two important essays on Mendes da Rocha s work This will be an essential book on this significant figure of global modernism and will point the way for future scholarship on Mendes da Rocha and the architecture of contemporary Brazil Distributed for Casa da Arquitectura Portuguese Centre for Architecture Exhibition Schedule Casa da Arquitectura Porto May 26 2023 February 25 2024

Reflections on Urban, Regional and National Space Uzo Nishiyama, 2017-11-30 Nishiyama Uz educated as an architect between 1930 and 1933 was a key figure in Japanese urban planning He was a prolific writer who influenced a whole generation of Japanese urban planners and his interpretations of foreign planning and local practice still influence Japanese planning theory and practice today Nishiyama's first publications date to the 1930s and his last ones appeared in the 1990s spanning a period of enormous political and spatial changes The three articles translated here originally published in the 1940s in professional magazines show how Nishiyama developed his theoretical models based on a social approach to architecture and planning focusing on land use and land control rather than aesthetic preferences They provide insight into Nishiyama's early thinking his analysis of foreign examples his reflection on large scale regional and national spatial organization and his architectural and urban visions providing a remarkable and fascinating insight into the state of planning in Japan These texts call scholarly attention to the writing of a global planning history and invite the reader to engage with a major figure in planning who is largely unknown outside Japan to reconsider Japanese planning history and to work towards a truly global planning history How does Nishiyama compare to the great urban planners of the past in the West such as Patrick Geddes Lewis Mumford or Werner Hegemann Many more translations will be necessary to answer this question

Key Modern Architects Andrew Higgott, 2018-05-31 Key Modern Architects provides an accessible and thought provoking introduction to the work of the most significant architects of the modern era Fifty short chapters introduce fifty key architects from Le Corbusier to Aldo Van Eyck to Zaha Hadid exploring their most influential buildings and developing a critique of each architect's work within a broader cultural and historical context The selection represents the most influential architects working from 1890 to the present those most likely to be taught on survey courses in modern architectural history along with some lesser known names with an equal claim to influence Emphasis is placed on a critical and interpretative approach allowing the student to position each architect in a cultural and intellectual context quickly and easily Artistic technical social and intellectual developments are brought to the fore built and unbuilt projects writings and influences This approach brings to light the ideology behind architectural work offering insights into each architect's working practice Helps students to develop a critical approach to understanding modern architectural history One chapter per architect meaning chapters may be read individually as a concise resource for the study of an architect or together as a coherent book length history of the whole period of modern architecture Chapters are supported by boxed lists of each architect's most significant projects along with suggestions for further reading as a springboard to further study and research Combining the clarity and accessibility of a textbook with in depth reading and a critical approach Key Modern Architects provides an invaluable resource for both the classroom and for independent study in architectural and art history

Brutalism Resurgent Julia Gatley, Stuart King, 2018-02-02 Brutalism had its origins in b ton brut concrete in the raw and thus in the post war work of Le Corbusier The British architects Alison and Peter Smithson used the term New Brutalism from 1953 claiming that if their house in Soho had been built it would have been the first exponent of the New Brutalism in England Reyner Banham famously gave the movement a series of characteristics including the clear expression of a building's structure and services and the honest use of materials in their as found condition The Smithsons and Banham promoted the New Brutalism as ethic rather than aesthetic privileging truth to structure materials and services and the gritty reality of the working classes over the concerns of the bourgeoisie But Brutalist architecture changed as it was taken up by others giving rise to more sculptural buildings flaunting their raw materials including off form concrete often in conjunction with bold structural members While Brutalism fell out of vogue in the 1980s recent years have seen renewed admiration for it This volume is consistent with this broader resurgence presenting new scholarship on Brutalist architects and projects from Skopje to Sydney and from Harvard to Haringey It will appeal to readers interested in twentieth century architecture and modern and post war heritage This book was originally published as a special issue of Fabrications the Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians Australia and New Zealand The AIA Gold Medal Richard Guy Wilson,1984 Kenzo Tange Robin Boyd,1962 Kenzo Tange and the Metabolist Movement Zhongjie Lin,2023-08-31 Amid Japan s political turbulence in 1960 seven architects and designers founded Metabolism to propagate radical ideas of urbanism Kenz Tange s Plan for Tokyo 1960 further celebrated urban expansion as organic processes and pushed city design to an unprecedented scale Metabolists visionary schemes of the city gave birth to revolutionary design paradigms which reinvented the discourse of modern Japanese architecture and propelled it through the years of Economic Miracle to a global prominence Their utopian concepts which often envisaged the sea and the sky as human habitats of the future reflected fundamental issues of cultural transformation and addressed environmental crises of the postindustrial society This new edition expands Zhongjie Lin s pathbreaking account on Tange and Metabolism centered at the intersection of urbanism and utopianism The thorough historical survey from Metabolism s inauguration at the 1960 World Design Conference to the apex of the movement at Expo 70 and further to the recent demolition of Nakagin Capsule Tower leads to a definition of three Metabolist urban paradigms megastructure group form and ruins which continue to inspire experiments in architecture city design and conservation Kenz Tange and the Metabolist Movement is a key book for architectural and urban historians architects and all those interested in avant garde design Japanese architecture and contemporary urbanism

Architecture of Instruction and Delight Pieter van Wesemael,2001 Future Cities Nick Dunn,Paul Cureton,2020-12-10 What might our cities look like in ten twenty or fifty years How may future cities face global challenges Imagining the city of the future has long been an inspiration for many architects artists and designers This book examines how cities of the future have been visualised what these projects sought to communicate and what the implications may be for us now It provides a visual history of the future and explores the relationships between different visualisation techniques and ideologies for cities Thinking about what futures are who they are for why they are desirable and how and when they are to be brought into being is central to this book Through visualisation we are able to experiment in ways that would be impractical and potentially hazardous in the real world and this book therefore aims to contribute toward a better understanding of the power and agency of visualisations for future cities In this lavishly illustrated text the authors apply several critical lenses to consider the subject in different ways technological futures social futures and global futures providing a comprehensive survey and analysis of visions for future cities and engaging creatively with how we perceive tomorrow s world and future studies more widely
