¹² To address the issue, we estimated the model for each country separately. The results are available from the author upon request.

As noted earlier, the 1990s witnessed a dramatic rise in the number of U.S. firms operating in foreign markets. This rise was driven by a number of factors, including the globalization of markets, the need for firms to diversify their product lines, and the desire for firms to expand their customer base. The rise in international trade and investment was also driven by the need for firms to access new sources of capital and technology. The rise in international trade and investment was also driven by the need for firms to access new sources of capital and technology.
