Classical Archaeology in Context Donald Haggis, Carla Antonaccio, 2015-05-19 This book compiles a series of case studies derived from archaeological excavation in Greek cultural contexts in the Mediterranean ca 800-100 B.C., addressing the current state of the field, the goals and direction of Greek archaeology, and its place in archaeological thought and practice. Overviews of archaeological sites and analyses of assemblages and contexts explore how new forms of data, methods of data recovery and analysis, and sampling strategies have affected the discourse in classical archaeology, and the range of research questions and strategies at our disposal. Recent excavations and field practices are steering the way that we approach Greek cultural landscapes and form broader theoretical perspectives while generating new research questions and interpretive frameworks that in turn affect how we sample sites, collect and study material remains, and ultimately construct the archaeological record. The book confronts the implications of an integrated dialogue between realms of data and interpretive methodologies, addressing how reengagement with the site assemblage or artifact from the excavation context can structure the way that we link archaeological and systemic contexts in classical archaeology.

The poetical Works of Thomas Moore Thomas Moore, 1870 Blanks, Print, Space, and Void in English Renaissance Literature Jonathan Sawday, 2023 This book is an inquiry into blank or empty spaces in primarily English printed books in the period c. 1500-c. 1700, as well as in Renaissance culture more generally. The book concentrates on the substrate, the background of any printed work, which is often held to be empty or blank space. These spaces are also considered as gaps where text or images are constructed as missing, lost, withheld, or perhaps never devised in the first place. The topics discussed include space and silence, emptiness and absence, the vacuum, race and racial identity, blackness and whiteness, together with lightness, darkness, and sightlessness; cartography and emptiness; the effect of typography on reading practices; the social spaces of the page; gendered surfaces; hierarchies of information; books of memory; pages constructed as waste or vacant; blank forms; and bureaucracy, political and devotional spaces, censorship, endings, fragments, terminations, and mortality. The book pays close attention to the writings of many of the familiar figures in English Renaissance literary culture: Sidney, Shakespeare, Donne, Jonson, and Milton. But the book also discusses the work of numerous women writers from the period, including Aphra Behn, Ann Bradstreet, Margaret Cavendish, Lady Jane Gray, Lucy Hutchinson, Melia Lanyer, Arbella Stuart, Isabella Whitney, and Lady Mary Wroth, as well as introducing readers to many lesser-known figures and writings of the period.
