History Films, Women, and Freud's Uncanny Susan E. Linville,2004-06-01 History films were a highly popular genre in the 1990s as Hollywood looked back at significant and troubling episodes from World War II the Cold War era and the techno war in the Persian Gulf As filmmakers attempted to confront and manage intractable elements of the American past such as the trauma of war and the legacy of racism Susan Linville argues that a surprising casualty occurred the erasure of relevant facets of contemporary women's history In this book Linville offers a sustained critique of the history film and its reduction of women to figures of ambivalence or absence Historicizing and adapting Freud's concept of the uncanny and its relationship to the maternal body as the first home she offers theoretically sophisticated readings of the films Midnight Clear Saving Private Ryan The Thin Red Line Nixon Courage Under Fire Lone Star and Limbo She also demonstrates that the uncanny is not only a source of anxiety but also potentially a progressive force for eroding nostalgic ideals of nation and gender Linville concludes with a close reading of a recent 9/11 documentary showing how the patterns and motifs of 1990s history films informed it and what that means for our future

The Origins of the Film Star System Andrew Shail, 2019-05-30 Drawing on a wide range of archival sources Andrew Shail traces the emergence of film stardom in Europe and North America in the early 20th century Modifying and supplementing Richard deCordova's account of the birth of the US star system Shail describes the complex set of economic circumstances that led film studios and actors to consent to the adoption of a star system He then explores the film industry's turn from 1908 to making character based series films He details how these characters both prefigured and precipitated the star system demonstrating that series characters and the firmament of film stars are functionally equivalent and shows how openly fictional characters still provide the model for real film stars The Philosophy of Documentary Film David LaRocca, 2016-12-20 The spirit that founded the volume and guided its development is radically inter and transdisciplinary Dispatches have arrived from anthropology communications English film studies including theory history criticism literary studies including theory history criticism media and screen studies cognitive cultural studies narratology philosophy poetics politics and political theory and as a special aspect of the volume theorist filmmakers make their thoughts known as well Consequently the critical reflections gathered here are decidedly pluralistic and heterogeneous inviting not bracketing or partitioning the dynamism and diversity of the arts humanities social sciences and even natural sciences in so far as we are biological beings who are trying to track our cognitive and perceptual understanding of a nonbiological thing namely film whether celluloid based or in digital form these disciplines so habitually cordoned off from one another are brought together into a shared conversation about a common object and domain of investigation This book will be of interest to theorists and practitioners of nonfiction film to emerging and established scholars contributing to the secondary literature and to those who are intrigued by the kinds of questions and claims that seem native to nonfiction film and who may wish to explore some critical responses to them written in engaging language
