the existence of a CT negative third window syndrome with the same clinical phenotype of superior semicircular canal dehiscence exists. It has been reported that CT negative third window syndrome is associated with a pseudoconductive hearing loss and an abnormally reduced cVEMP threshold among other objective findings typically found in superior semicircular canal dehiscence patients. The more general term of Third Window Syndrome has gained acceptance because the same spectrum of symptoms/signs on physical examination and audiological diagnostic findings are encountered with superior semicircular canal dehiscence, cochlea facial nerve dehiscence, cochlea internal carotid artery dehiscence, cochlea internal auditory canal dehiscence, lateral semicircular canal superior semicircular canal ampulla dehiscence, modiolus perilymph fistula, posterior semicircular canal dehiscence, posterior semicircular canal endolymphatic sac dehiscence, posterior semicircular canal jugular bulb dehiscence, superior semicircular canal dehiscence, subarcuate artery dehiscence, superior semicircular canal dehiscence, superior petrosal vein dehiscence, vestibule middle ear dehiscence, lateral semicircular canal facial nerve dehiscence, wide vestibular aqueduct in children, posttraumatic hypermobile stapes footplate, and in patients with CT negative Third Window Syndrome. A common structural finding in all of these conditions is an otic capsule defect that creates a third window. Bailey & Scott's Diagnostic Microbiology - E-BOOK Patricia M.
