Running with Lithium—Empowering the Earth Michael Thackeray, 2019-04-25 In answer to the call for electric vehicles to counter the oil embargo and crisis in the Middle East during the mid 1970s, researchers at the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) in South Africa initiated a twenty-year research programme that led to the discoveries of a novel rechargeable high-temperature sodium battery and new materials for ambient-temperature lithium batteries. The latter research laid the foundation for advances in lithium-ion technology that now commands a multibillion-dollar industry. Running with Lithium: Empowering the Earth follows the path of science from materials discovery to commercial use and the protection of intellectual property. Author Michael Thackeray shares his memoir and a story about decision making and the consequences of choice on the course of a life in a highly competitive world while encountering big changes, experiences, and remarkable coincidences along the way. Running with Lithium: Empowering the Earth emphasizes the need for clean energy and a rapid redirection of human ingenuity to undo the ecological damage that has been inflicted on earth since the Industrial Revolution some two hundred years ago. Follow Michael's journey and be inspired to engage in a scientific career at a time when the world's growing number of inhabitants have an increasingly unequal share of its resources and in which life and survival are being challenged by an urgent need for clean energy and an electrification of the planet.

Dragons & Butterflies Shani Krebs, 2014-04-25 Shani Krebs didn't fall in with a bad crowd; he was the bad crowd. Born to Hungarian refugees in Johannesburg, South Africa, Shani had a tough childhood. During his national service, he started dabbling in drugs, and it wasn't long before he was supplying the Johannesburg party scene with marijuana, LSD, mandrax, and cocaine. It was a wild life filled with girlfriends, narrow escapes, and drug binges. His closest friend was his pistol. Then in 1994, at the birth of South Africa's democracy, Shani flew to Thailand where he was arrested for heroin trafficking and, after a trial, was sentenced to death. He was 34. Shani's sentence was commuted to 100 years and thus begun the greatest challenge of his life. The first hurdle was to survive in one of the toughest prisons imaginable: the random violence, the appalling diet, and the filth and diseases. Shani not only survived; he eventually rose to command significant respect within the prison system. The second was to stay off drugs after years of addiction. The third was nurturing a long-neglected spiritual side, which he found through his art and exploring his Jewish faith. But what gave him most focus was in collaboration with his sister Joan, trying to find some way either to be transferred to a South African prison or have his sentence shortened. He failed in the former but, after serving 18 years, the longest-serving Westerner in a Thai prison, he stepped off a plane at OR Tambo in 2012. South Africa was a changed country, and Shani was a changed man. After adjusting to life on the outside, he is now a talented artist.

and public speaker rallying against drug abuse in schools Dragons Butterflies tells the remarkable story of a man who reached absolute rock bottom but had the fortitude to rise up again Courage Gordon Brown, 2009-05-05 In the tradition of John F Kennedy's Pulitzer Prize winning Profiles in Courage Prime Minister Gordon Brown's fascinating collection of inspirational leaders is destined to become a staple of every politically conscious reader's library as his already significant profile grows exponentially around the world The prime minister explores the lives of eight outstanding twentieth century figures to uncover why some men and women make difficult decisions and do the right thing when easier and far less dangerous alternatives are open to them Those profiled range from icons such as Martin Luther King Jr and Robert F Kennedy to lesser known figures such as Edith Cavell who nursed the wounded of World War I in Belgium and helped Allied soldiers escape and pastor Dietrich Bonhoeffer who returned to Nazi Germany from New York to lead the Christian opposition against Hitler's regime Bringing his personal reflections to these intimate portraits Brown illuminates a common thread of inspiring courage in every one of these eight heroes and in doing so introduces us to his own inspiring values
