Global Technology and Legal Theory Guilherme Cintra Guimarães, 2019-06-05 The rise and spread of the Internet has accelerated the global flows of money technology and information that are increasingly perceived as a challenge to the traditional regulatory powers of nation states and the effectiveness of their constitutions The acceleration of these flows poses new legal and political problems to their regulation and control as shown by recent conflicts between Google and the European Union EU This book investigates the transnational constitutional dimension of recent conflicts between Google and the EU in the areas of competition taxation and human rights More than a simple case study it explores how the new conflicts originating from the worldwide expansion of the Internet economy are being dealt with by the institutional mechanisms available at the European level The analysis of these conflicts exposes the tensions and contradictions between on the one hand legal and political systems that are limited by territory and on the other hand the inherently global functioning of the Internet The EU s promising initiatives to extend the protection of privacy in cyberspace set the stage for a broader dialogue on constitutional problems related to the enforcement of fundamental rights and the legitimate exercise of power that are common to different legal orders of world society Nevertheless the different ways of dealing with the competition and fiscal aspects of the conflicts with Google also indicate the same limits that are generally attributed to the very project of European integration showing that the constitutionalization of the economy tends to outpace the constitutionalization of politics Providing a detailed account of the unfolding of these conflicts and their wider consequences to the future of the Internet this book will appeal to scholars working in EU law international law and constitutional law as well as those in the fields of political science and sociology

Religion and American Education Warren A. Nord, 2014-07-01 Warren Nord s thoughtful book tackles an issue of great importance in contemporary America the role of religion in our public schools and universities According to Nord public opinion has been excessively polarized by those religious conservatives who would restore religious purposes and practices to public education and by those secular liberals for whom religion is irrelevant to everything in the curriculum While he maintains that public schools and universities must not promote religion he also argues that there are powerful philosophical political moral and constitutional reasons for requiring students to study religion Indeed only if religion is included in the curriculum will students receive a truly liberal education one that takes seriously a variety of ways of understanding the human experience Intended for a broad audience Nord s comprehensive study encompasses American history constitutional law educational theory and practice theology philosophy and ethics It also discusses a number of current controversial issues including multiculturalism moral education creationism academic freedom and the voucher and school choice movements purchasing power in the medium term tourism businesses are still likely to be at least as seriously affected by the upcoming new distribution of economic power as any other industry A long term trade and industry downturn may bring about a broad range of changes to the world like altered roles of the United States the European Union and the Asian block insecurity and crime a different understanding of handling energy resources further polarization between rich and poor or changing values and therefore consumer preferences in general to name just a few All these factors may potentially have adverse impacts on tourism businesses and thus require adequate attention and timely academic research However change can also mean positive development and can open up new chances and opportunities for the world economy These opportunities need to be identified assessed and exploited With an estimated direct and indirect contribution of the travel and tourism sector of 9.4 percent to global GDP 10.9 percent to world exports and 9.4 percent to world investment the significance of the industry's role in the struggle for economic recovery clearly must not be underestimated As the tourism industry is all about pleasant experiences and the positive things in life it is sometimes hard to think about crisis management When having to operate in an economically insecure environment of the current dimension numerous managers therefore face the challenging situation of having to make decisions in fields they do have little or no knowledge about However in a fast changing and highly volatile economic climate like the present inaccurate decisions by executives of tourism businesses can have devastating consequences and can
