Superior Angela Saini,2019-05-21 This fascinating critique of race science from the Enlightenment to the 21st century is an easy to read blend of science reporting cultural criticism and personal reflection Slate An important and timely reminder that race is a social construct with no basis in biology Kirkus Reviews After the horrors of the Nazi regime in World War II the mainstream scientific world turned its back on eugenics and the study of racial difference But a worldwide network of intellectual racists and segregationists quietly founded journals and funded research providing the kind of shoddy studies that were ultimately cited in Richard Herrnstein and Charles Murray s 1994 title The Bell Curve which purported to show differences in intelligence among races If the vast majority of scientists and scholars disavowed these ideas and considered race a social construct it was an idea that still managed to somehow survive in the way scientists thought about human variation and genetics Dissecting the statements and work of contemporary scientists studying human biodiversity most of whom claim to be just following the data Angela Saini shows us how again and again even mainstream scientists cling to the idea that race is biologically real As our understanding of complex traits like intelligence and the effects of environmental and cultural influences on human beings from the molecular level on up grows the hope of finding simple genetic differences between races to explain differing rates of disease to explain poverty or test scores or to justify cultural assumptions stubbornly persists At a time when racialized nationalisms are a resurgent threat throughout the world Superior is a rigorous much needed examination of the insidious and destructive nature of race science and a powerful reminder that biologically we are all far more alike than different
