

Captain Cook's Landing at Botany Bay

Account of Captain James Cook

Sunday 19th April 1770

Almost a week had passed since Lieutenant Hicks shouted 'land ahoy' and furnished our discovery of the east coast of New Holland.

Since then, we have sailed the Endeavour steadily northwards, keeping land in sight all the while. We have been kept busy mapping the coastline of this new and mysterious land.

On the morning of Sunday 19th April, we reached a place of great interest. It was a wide but shallow inlet, the immediately dropped anchor off a low headland covered with coral reefs. The great number of starlings caught that morning prompted me to rather uncreatively name this place 'Starling Harbour'.

Around lunchtime we lifted anchor and sailed the Endeavour into the inlet. On either headland, we saw natives.

Soon after we dropped anchor again, a number of yellow rollers and magpie sat out in a rowboat to investigate. As we drifted toward the shore I said to sailor James Smith, 'Jump out, James,' thus making him the first European to set foot on the jotted east coast of New Holland. We all went followed and waded through the shallow, warm water to the shore.

A week, counting the way was right. The ship and crew had sailed a number of other seas. They were in a - all looking forward to the land. They were over their heads and promising.

It was, indeed, we found only a small number of yellow rollers and magpie, and the young man, the old man in our boat.

It is possible they had seen the water. They were not sure if it was the water. They were not sure if it was the water. They were not sure if it was the water.

Talk for Writing Across the Curriculum, How to Teach Non-Fiction Writing to 5-12 Year Olds \(Revised Edition\) Pie Corbett, Julia Strong, 2020-08-26 This bestselling resource has been fully updated putting formative assessment at the heart of the Talk for Writing process and showing how to help children love writing across the curriculum By helping children speak the language of non fiction in a fun engaging way before they attempt to write the Talk for Writing approach builds children s confidence and linguistic ability enabling them to craft their own writing In the new edition this practical resource offers Fully worked tried and tested examples of how to apply Talk for Writing to each non fiction text type A wide range of fun activities helping children internalise how to express and link text effectively A process that co constructs learning so that children learn how to structure text and create toolkits of key ingredients Guidance for teachers in England on how to apply the approach across the primary curriculum An OLC including new footage of Pie Corbett demonstrating Talk for Writing and new footage of classes engaged in the approach Advice on how to use the DVD and handouts to train all staff in the approach Evidence of impact from cold to hot tasks Designed for busy teachers Talk for Writing across the Curriculum second edition will help transform children s writing and attainment across the curriculum This book celebrates the importance of talk in becoming and growing as a writer talk to share ideas talk to analyse text talk to co construct writing and to talk to evaluate writing Throughout the book constantly underlines the importance of talk for learning and the many creative and rich ways talk can be used to help young writers internalise the rhythms and patterns of text Full of practical ideas and activities the teaching combines being creative and being critical in a wholly integrated way An invaluable resource for primary school teachers Debra Myhill Professor of Education at the University of Exeter UK The teaching of reading has always taken priority in policy and practice in literacy Pie Corbett and Julia Strong have produced a very welcome counterweight to that dominance in their Talk for Writing Across the Curriculum It is so refreshing to see suggestions for teaching to bring elements of language together especially when done in such an entertaining and engaging way as this This new edition makes a classic even better David Wray Emeritus Professor University of Warwick UK This latest update of Pie and Julia s best selling book reflects changes in the curriculum strengthening the T4W approach using cold and hot tasks showing new worked examples of how to apply T4W to each non fiction type and placing formative assessment at the heart of the process It is exciting to see how all the best ideas and findings in education are converging evidenced in this latest up to the minute excellent publication Shirley Clarke Formative Assessment Expert History and the Construction of the Child in Early British Children's Literature Jackie C. Horne,2016-04-22 How did the flat characters of eighteenth century children s literature become round by the mid nineteenth While previous critics have pointed to literary Romanticism for an explanation Jackie C Horne argues that this shift can be better understood by looking to the discipline of history Eighteenth century humanism believed the purpose of history was to teach private and public virtue by creating idealized readers to emulate Eighteenth century children s literature with its impossibly perfect protagonists and its equally imperfect villains echoes history s exemplar goals Exemplar history however came under increasing pressure during the period and the resulting changes in historiographical practice an increased need for reader engagement and the widening of history s purview to include the morals manners and material lives of everyday people find their mirror in changes in fiction for children Horne situates hitherto neglected Robinsonades historical novels and fictionalized histories within the cultural social and political contexts of the period to trace the ways in which idealized characters gradually gave way to protagonists who fostered readers sympathetic engagement Horne s study will be of interest to specialists in children s literature the history of education and book history Re/reading the past J.R. Martin,Ruth Wodak,2003-11-17 Re reading the Past is concerned with the discourses of history from the complementary perspectives of Critical Discourse Analysis CDA and Systemic Functional Linguistics SFL The papers in the book stress the discursive construction of the past focussing on the different social narratives which compete for official acknowledgement Issues of collective and cultural memory are addressed reflecting the linguistic turn in the Social Sciences The book covers a range of discourses interpreting texts from popular culture to academic discourse including the construction and evaluation of past events in a variety of places around the world It is especially timely in its focus on the construction of time and value in a post colonial world where history discourses are central to on going processes of reconciliation debates on war crimes and the issues of amnesty and restitution As such the book fills a significant gap in interdisciplinary debates as well as in register and genre analysis and will be of general interest to historians political scientists and discourse analysts as well as students and teachers of ESP English for Specific Purposes and EAP English for Academic Purposes
