Yuhl,2006-03-08 Charleston South Carolina today enjoys a reputation as a destination city for cultural and heritage tourism In A Golden Haze of Memory Stephanie E Yuhl looks back to the crucial period between 1920 and 1940 when local leaders developed Charleston s trademark image as America s Most Historic City Eager to assert the national value of their regional cultural traditions and to situate Charleston as a bulwark against the chaos of modern America these descendants of old line families downplayed Confederate associations and emphasized the city s colonial and early national prominence They created a vibrant network of individual artists literary figures and organizations such as the all white Society for the Preservation of Negro Spirituals that nurtured architectural preservation art literature and tourism while appropriating African American folk culture In the process they translated their selective and idiosyncratic personal familial and class memories into a collective identity for the city The Charleston this group built Yuhl argues presented a sanitized yet highly marketable version of the American past Their efforts invited attention and praise from outsiders while protecting social hierarchies and preserving the political and economic power of whites Through the example of this colorful southern city Yuhl posits a larger critique about the use of heritage and demonstrates how something as intangible as the recalled past can be transformed into real political economic and social power The Publishers Weekly ,1889 Illustrated Catalogue of Books, Standard and Holiday McClurg, Firm,

Greco, 2020-06-10 From the late 1930s until December 7 1941 isolationism and an antipathy toward war in Europe were strong political currents in the US However once the US entered World War II the entire apparatus of the US government was mobilized to market the war to Americans who were incredulous and horrified about the attack at Pearl Harbor Americans wanted immediate and detailed information from the US government and the nation's media and entertainment companies about the recent military disasters This book analyzes the complex relationships between the US government and the entire media and entertainment industries between 1939 and 1946 The US government realized in early 1942 that it needed to forge an alliance with the media and entertainment industries to create and maintain support for the war The Office of War Information OWI was the US government agency acting as the liaison between Washington and the diverse media and entertainment industries and all of them confronted a series of major issues and concerns to convince Americans to support the war effort This book offers business historians an examination of the complex and sometimes tense relationships between the OWI and the radio magazine newspaper and motion picture industries
