Patricia O'Hara, 1998-06-01 In Ireland family farming retains enormous ideological and cultural significance As a social form it is one of the last preserves of male dominance in which women s contributions and concerns are largely overlooked This book breaks new ground as the first major study of Irish farm families in which women are the focus of attention Little is known of how gender relations actually work themselves out within farm families or of farm women's understanding of their situation but even a casual observer would conclude that Irish farm women are not without influence This volume reveals how contemporary farm women experience life on the family farm often through their own voices and how they have managed to create their own spheres of influence despite their apparent unequal status and invisibility in the male world of agriculture This study not only makes farm women's subordination explicit but in discerning the sources and force of their influence within and outside the farm family it offers a challenge to existing explanations of the evolution of Irish rural social structures It also suggests that feminist theories of the family need to pay closer attention to the mother's influence on social reproduction around them they preferred to go with the flow make the most of the moment and avoid self imposed constraints Their spouses who grew up in professional white collar families however wanted to manage the world around them they organized planned monitored and oversaw Living with a spouse who was born into a different class means navigating these differences differences that appeared across nearly every aspect of their lives from how they manage their finances to how they manage their time both at home and on vacation to ideas about how their children should be raised The Power of the Past illustrates that when individuals are raised in different classes merged lives do not lead to merged ideas about how to lead those lives Individuals can come together across class lines but their enduring class characteristics cannot be left behind Dyestuffs,1913 Modern Hospital ,1925 Electric Cooking, Heating, Cleaning, Etc Maud Lucas Lancaster,1914 Reports on Forest Administration in Burma Burma.
