How Racism Takes Place:

How Racism Takes Place George Lipsitz, 2011-03-11 How racism shapes urban spaces and how African Americans create vibrant communities that offer models for more equitable social arrangements The Black Geographic Camilla Hawthorne, Jovan Scott Lewis, 2023-09-12 The contributors to The Black Geographic explore the theoretical innovations of Black Geographies scholarship and how it approaches Blackness as historically and spatially situated. In studies that span from Oakland to the Alabama Black Belt to Senegal to Brazil, the contributors draw on ethnography, archival records, digital humanities, literary criticism, and art to show how understanding the spatial dimensions of Black life contributes to a broader understanding of race and space. They examine key sites of inquiry: Black spatial imaginaries, resistance to racial violence, the geographies of racial capitalism, and struggles over urban space. Throughout, the contributors demonstrate that Blackness is itself a situating and place-making force, even as it is shaped by spatial processes and diasporic routes. Whether discussing eighteenth and nineteenth-century abolitionist print records or migration and surveillance in Niger, this volume demonstrates that The Black Geographic is a mode of analyzing Blackness that fundamentally challenges the very foundations of the field of geography and its historical entwinement with colonialism, enslavement, and imperialism. In short, it marks a new step in the evolution of the field. Contributors: Anna Livia Brand, C. N. E. Corbin, Lindsey Dillon, Chiyuma Elliott, Ampson Hagan, Camilla Hawthorne, Matthew Jordan Miller, Kenyatta Jovan Scott Lewis, Judith Madera, Jordanna Matlon, Solange Muoz, Diana Negrón, Danielle Purifoy, Sharita Towne. The Ethics of Encounter Mescher, Marcus, 2020-03-18 The author provides an ethical framework for the culture of encounter that Pope Francis calls us to build. The Laziness Myth Christine Jeske, 2020-12-15 When people cannot find good work, can they still find good lives? By investigating this question in the context of South Africa, where only 43 percent of adults are employed, Christine Jeske invites readers to examine their own assumptions about how work and the good life do or do not coincide. The Laziness Myth challenges the widespread premise that hard work determines success by tracing the titular laziness myth, a persistent narrative that disguises the systems and structures that produce inequalities while blaming unemployment and other social ills on the so-called laziness of particular class, racial, and ethnic groups. Jeske offers evidence of the laziness myth's harsh consequences as well as insights into how to challenge it with other South African narratives of a good life. In contexts as diverse as rapping in a library, manufacturing leather shoes, weed whacking neighbors' yards, negotiating marriage plans, and sharing water taps, the people described in this book will stimulate discussion on creative possibilities for seeking the good life in and out of employment in South Africa and elsewhere. The Habits of Racism Helen Ngo, 2017-08-16 The Habits of Racism examines some of the complex questions raised by the phenomenon and experience of racism. Helen Ngo draws on the resources of Merleau-Ponty to show how the conceptual reworking of habit as bodily orientation helps to identify the subtle but more fundamental workings of racism to catch its insidious gestural expressions as well as its habitual modes of racialized perception. Racism, as Ngo argues, is equally expressed through bodily habits which once reformulated raises important ethical questions regarding the responsibility for one's racist habits. Ngo also considers what the lived experience of racism and racialization teaches us about the nature of embodied and socially situated being, arguing that racialized embodiment problematizes and extends existing accounts of embodied experience and calls into question dominant philosophical paradigms of the self as coherent, fluid, and synchronous. Drawing on thinkers such as Fanon, she argues that the racialized body is in front of itself and uncanny in the Heideggerian senses of strange and not at home while exploring the phenomenological and existential implications of this disorientation and displacement. Finally, she returns to the visual register to take up the question of objectification in the racist gaze, critically examining the subject-object ontology presupposed by Sartre's account of the gaze. Regarding the embodied being, she recalls that all embodied being is always already relational and co-constituting. Ngo draws on Merleau-Ponty's concept of the intertwining to argue that a phenomenology of racialized embodiment reveals to us the ontological violence of racism, not a merely violation of one's subjectivity as commonly claimed, but also a violation of one's intersubjectivity. The original arguments in The Habits of Racism will be of particular value to students and scholars interested in critical philosophy of race, phenomenology, and social and political philosophy, and may also be of interest to those working in feminist philosophy, queer studies, and disability studies.

Black in Place Brandi Thompson Summers, 2019-09-09 While Washington, D.C. is still often referred to as Chocolate City, it has undergone significant demographic, political, and economic change in the last decade. In D.C., no place represents this shift better than the H Street corridor. In this book, Brandi Thompson Summers documents D.C.'s shift to a post-chocolate cosmopolitan metropolis by charting H Street's economic and racial developments. In doing so, she offers a theoretical framework for understanding how blackness is aestheticized and deployed to organize landscapes and raise capital. Summers focuses on the continuing significance of blackness in a place like the nation's capital, how blackness contributes to our understanding of contemporary urbanization, and how it laid an important foundation for how Black people have been thought to exist in cities. Summers also analyzes how blackness as a representation of diversity is marketed to sell a progressive, cool, and authentic experience of being in and moving through an urban center. Using a mix of participant observation, visual and media analysis, interviews, and archival research, Summers shows how blackness has become a prized and lucrative aesthetic that often excludes D.C.'s Black residents.

The Pursuit of Racial and Ethnic Equality in American Public Schools Kristi L. Bowman, 2014-12-19 In 1954, the Supreme Court decided Brown v. Board of Education. Ten years later, Congress enacted the Civil Rights Act. These monumental changes in American law dramatically expanded educational opportunities for racial and ethnic minority children across the country. They also changed the experiences of white children who have learned in increasingly diverse classrooms. The authors of this commemorative volume include leading scholars in law, education, and public policy, as well as important historical figures. Taken together, the chapters trace the narrative arc of school desegregation in the United States, beginning in California in the 1940s, continuing through Brown

v Board the Civil Rights Act and three important Supreme Court decisions about school desegregation and voluntary integration in 1974 1995 and 2007 The authors also assess the status of racial and ethnic equality in education today and consider the viability of future legal and policy reform in pursuit of the goals of Brown v Board This remarkable collection of voices in conversation with one another lays the groundwork for future discussions about the relationship between law and educational equality and ultimately for the creation of new public policy A valuable reference for scholars and students alike this dynamic text is an important contribution to the literature by an outstanding group of authors From Power to Prejudice Leah N. Gordon,2015-05-20 Gordon provides an intellectual history of the concept of racial prejudice in postwar America In particular she asks what accounts for the dominance of theories of racism that depicted oppression in terms of individual perpetrators and victims more often than in terms of power relations and class conflict Such theories came to define race relations research civil rights activism and social policy Gordon s book is a study in the politics of knowledge production as it charts debates about the race problem in a variety of institutions including the Rockefeller Foundation the University of Chicago s Committee on Education Training and Research in Race Relations Fisk University s Race Relations Institutes Howard University s Journal of Negro Education and the National Conference of Christians and Jews Antiracist Journalism Andrea Wenzel,2023-11-14 Across the United States newsrooms are grappling with systemic racism in their organizations and the media industry Many have implemented diversity equity and inclusion DEI initiatives or made other attempts to confront past and present biases in pursuit of greater equity Are such efforts merely performative or are any transforming norms and power structures What would it take to hold newsrooms truly accountable Andrea Wenzel provides a critical look at how local media organizations in the Philadelphia area are attempting to address structural racism She focuses on two established majority white newsrooms the Philadelphia Inquirer and the public radio station WHYY and two start ups where at least half the staff identify as Black Indigenous or people of color BIPOC Resolve Philly and Kensington Voice Drawing on more than five years of field research Wenzel charts how these outlets have pursued a range of interventions such as tracking the diversity of sources examining reporting and editing practices and working with community members to gain input to varying degrees of success Wenzel argues that institutional and systemic transformation will be possible only through the establishment of structures that facilitate holding those with more power responsible for listening to and addressing the needs and concerns of those with less Offering recommendations for building infrastructure that enables sustainable accountability Antiracist Journalism is an important book for everyone interested in making local journalism more equitable Relational Formations of Race Natalia Molina,Daniel Martinez HoSang,Ramón A. Gutiérrez,2019-02-05 Relational Formations of Race brings African American Chicana Latinx Asian American and Native American studies together in a single volume enabling readers to consider the racialization and formation of subordinated groups in relation to one another These essays conceptualize racialization as a dynamic and interactive process group based racial constructions are formed not only in relation to whiteness but also in relation to other devalued and marginalized groups The chapters offer explicit guides to understanding race as relational across all disciplines time periods regions and social groups By studying race relationally and through a shared context of meaning and power students will draw connections among subordinated groups and will better comprehend the logic that underpins the forms of inclusion and dispossession such groups face As the United States shifts toward a minority majority nation Relational Formations of Race offers crucial tools for understanding today's shifting race dynamics

Modernity Reimagined: An Analytic Guide
Chandra Mukerji, 2016-12-19 Winner of the American Sociological Association's Distinguished Book Award in 2012 Chandra Mukerji offers with this remarkable new book an explanation of the birth and subsequent proliferation of the many strands in the braid of modernity The journey she takes us on is dedicated to teasing those strands apart using forms of cultural analysis from the social sciences to approach history with fresh eyes Faced with the problem of trying to understand what is hardest to see the familiar she gains analytic distance and clarity by juxtaposing cultural analysis with history asking how modernity began and how people conjured into existence the world we now recognize as modern Part I describes the genesis of key modern social forms the modern self communities of strangers the modern state and the industrial world economy Part II focuses on modern social types races genders and childhood Part III focuses on some of the cultural artifacts and activities of the contemporary world that people have invented and used to cope with the burdens of self making and to react against the broken promises of modern discourse and the silent injuries of material modernism Beautifully illustrated with over 100 color photographs in its 10 chapters MODERNITY REIMAGINED is not just an explanation an analysis of how modern life came to be it is also a model for how to do cultural thinking about today's world

Where the Wild Things Were Henry Jenkins, 2025-02-25 Explores iconic works from The Cat in the Hat to The Twilight Zone to explain cultural trends in parenting and how we conceptualize childhood The 60s produced a Baby Boom generation that catalyzed the dawn of a new era the space age the age of television the global age and the beginnings of civil rights At the same time a new paradigm for parenting was unfolding that put emphasis on permissiveness defined by what it permitted the free and unfettered impulses of children Others worried that the wildness of children personified by the characters in Maurice Sendak's 1963 classic children's book Where the Wild Things Are was destructive disruptive and disrespectful Where the Wild Things Were centers on the exploding contentious national conversation about the nature of childhood and parenting in the postwar US emblemized by Dr Spock's Baby and Child Care Renowned scholar Henry Jenkins demonstrates that the language that shaped a growing field of advice literature for parents also informed the period's fictions in film television comics children's books and elsewhere produced for and consumed by children In particular Jenkins demonstrates the era's emblematic child was the boy in the striped shirt white male suburban middle class Christian and above all American Weaving together intellectual histories and popular texts Jenkins shows how boy protagonists became embodiments of permissive child rearing as well as the social ideals and contradictions that permissiveness entailed From Peanuts comic strips and TV specials to The Cat in the Hat Dennis the Menace and Jonny Quest the book reveals how childhood and the stories about it became central to Cold War concerns with democracy citizenship globalization the space race science race relations gender and sexuality Written by a former boy in a striped shirt Where the Wild Things Were explores iconic works from Mary Poppins to Lost in Space contextualizing them through a critical but respectful engagement with the core animating ideas of the permissive imagination

Race Capital? Andrew M. Fearnley,Daniel Matlin,2018-11-27 For close to a century Harlem has been the iconic black neighborhood widely seen as the heart of African American life and culture both celebrated as the vanguard of black self determination and lamented as the face of segregation But with Harlem s demographic physical and commercial landscapes rapidly changing the neighborhood s status as a setting and symbol of black political and cultural life looks uncertain As debate swirls around Harlem s present and future Race Capital revisits a century of the area s history culture and imagery exploring how and why it achieved its distinctiveness and significance and offering new accounts of Harlem s evolving symbolic power In this book leading scholars consider crucial aspects of Harlem s social political and intellectual history its artistic cultural and economic life and its representation across an array of media and genres Together they reveal a community at once local and transnational coalescing and conflicted one that articulated new visions of a cosmopolitan black modernity while clashing over distinctions of ethnicity gender class and sexuality Topics explored include Harlem as a literary phenomenon recent critiques of Harlem exceptionalism gambling and black business history the neighborhood's transnational character its importance in the black freedom struggle black queer spaces and public policy and neighborhood change in historical context Spanning a century from the emergence of the Harlem Renaissance to present day controversies over gentrification Race Capital models new Harlem scholarship that interrogates exceptionalism while taking seriously the importance of place and locality offering vistas onto new directions for African American and diasporic studies

South Central Is Home Abigail Rosas, 2019-07-23 South Central Los Angeles is often characterized as an African American community beset by poverty and economic neglect But this depiction obscures the significant Latina o population that has called South Central home since the 1970s More significantly it conceals the efforts African American and Latina o residents have made together in shaping their community As residents have faced increasing challenges from diminished government social services economic disinvestment immigration enforcement and police surveillance they have come together in their struggle for belonging and justice South Central Is Home investigates the development of relational community formation and highlights how communities of color like South Central experience racism and discrimination and how in the best of situations they are energized to improve their conditions together Tracking the demographic shifts in South Central from 1945 to the present Abigail Rosas shows how financial institutions War on Poverty programs like Headstart for school children and community health centers emerged as crucial sites where neighbors engaged one another over what was best for their community Through this work Rosas illuminates the promise of community building offering findings indispensable to our understandings of race community and place in U S society
