Dealing with Death Kathlyn Gay, 2017-10-06 Death is a sensitive subject for most people Whether due to fear or superstition many individuals avoid the topic of mortality For teens the subject is taboo as well Most young adults believe that death won't affect them so they'd rather not talk about it But death is a natural course of life and everyone including teens will encounter it at some time in their lives some sooner than later and some unexpectedly In Dealing with Death The Ultimate Teen Guide Kathlyn Gay addresses this difficult subject providing matter of fact discussions on a number of issues that help teens better understand the nature of mortality This book looks at the personal legal and moral questions related to death including How do you deal with the death of a loved one What's it like to live with a terminal illness What happens after you die Featuring real stories and quotes from teens about their experiences this book shows young adults a variety of views on dying and grieving This book will help readers deal with death not only the reality that death is inevitable for all of us but also the many ways people face death and bereavement Dealing with Death serves as a valuable resource for all teens whether they are dealing with tragedy or just looking for more information on a tough subject

Biopolitics and Animal Species in Nineteenth Century Literature and Science Matthew

Rowlinson,2024-02 Centring on Darwin and on literature throughout the nineteenth century this book documents a general crisis in the species concept      The Educational Significance of Human and Non-Human Animal Interactions

Suzanne Rice,A. G. Rud,2016-04-29 The Educational Significance of Human and Non Human Animal Interactions explores human animal non human animal interactions from different disciplinary perspectives from education policy to philosophy of education and ecopedagogy The authors refute the idea of anthropocentrism the belief that human beings are the central or most significant species on the planet through an ethical investigation into animal and human interactions and real life examples of humans and animals living and learning together In doing so Rice and Rud outline the idea that interactions between animals and humans are educationally significant and vital in the classroom      On Cassette ,1991      We All Feel

Barbara J. King,2013-12-13 From the time of our earliest childhood encounters with animals we casually ascribe familiar emotions to them though scientists have long cautioned against such anthropomorphizing Recently however things have begun to shift in the other direction and anthropologist Barbara J King is at the forefront of that movement arguing strenuously that we can and should attend to animal emotions In the stories she tells here King relays how some farm animals horses goats chickens and ducks bond with others and engage in mourning when their friends die Here too dolphins and whales exhibit striking signs of suffering over the loss of babies and companions a mother dolphin will not give up her dead baby and whales risk stranding themselves in small groups rather than abandon kin As part of a larger web of life death love and loss King calls our attention to emotions both our own and those of our companion species      Animal Grief David Alderton,2011-12-15 Science is now providing some remarkable insights into animal behavior with crocodiles for example emerging as devoted parents and elephants like whales able to communicate with each other across long distances by ultrasound which is inaudible to our ears There seems little doubt that animals experience a range of emotions just as we do but can they grieve too David Alderton award winning multi million specialist animal author contends that emotions including grief can potentially have a survival value for a species The authoritative rational text is superbly supported by interesting sensitive photographs carefully chosen to be reflective of the subject matter Unique subject matter drawing on the latest research Covers both domestic and wild animals A subject that has intrigued pet owners for many years Fascinating insights into the natural world Insights into how grieving may help wild animals to survive How this could affect conservation planning Sensitive rational approach to the subject The impact on pet owners and their animals Written by an award winning multi million selling specialist animal author A book with widespread appeal for anyone with an interest in the natural world
