The Developmental Psychology of Personal Identity Massimo Marraffa, Cristina Meini, 2024-03-21 Massimo Marraffa and Cristina Meini re connect the psychology of identity with its philosophical roots in this study They trace the contemporary problem of the self to John Locke and William James foundational theories on personal identity By integrating the philosophy of identity with empirical and neuropsychological research Marraffa and Meini provide an original synthesis of multidisciplinary conceptions of the self The Developmental Psychology of Personal Identity builds on Chomsky inspired developmental psychology Jean Piaget s constructivism Lev Vygotskij s sociocultural perspective on development and John Bowlby s attachment theory In this theoretical framework the book draws on the data of the psychological sciences to reconstruct the trajectory of the self as a Lockean person i e as morally responsible agent The authors link the birth of self consciousness through the body and emotions to the construction of a narrative self Their combination of philosophy and cognitive sciences makes an important contribution to multiple disciplines concerned with personal identity It provokes new routes to understanding identity and self autobiographical memory and personality The Autobiographical Self in Time and Culture Qi Wang, 2013-07-26 In this volume Qi Wang traces the developmental social cultural and historical origins of the autobiographical self the self that is made of memories of the personal past and of the family and the community Wang combines rigorous research sensitive survey of real memories and memory conversations and fascinating personal anecdotes into a state of the art book As a marginal woman who grew up in the East and works and lives in the West Wang s analysis is unique insightful and approachable Her accounts of her own family stories extraordinarily careful and thorough documentation of research findings and compelling theoretical insights together convey an unequivocal message The autobiographical self is conditioned by one s time and culture Beginning with a perceptive examination of the form content and function of parent child conversations of personal and family stories Wang undertakes to show how the autobiographical self is formed in and shaped by the process of family storytelling situated in specific cultural contexts By contrasting the development of autobiographical writings in Western and Chinese literatures Wang seeks to demonstrate the cultural stance of the autobiographical self in historical time She examines the autobiographical self in personal time thoughtfully analyzing the form structure and content of everyday memories to reveal the role of culture in modulating information processing and determining how the autobiographical self is remembered Focusing on memories of early childhood Wang seeks to answer the question of when the autobiographical self begins from a cross cultural perspective She sets out further to explore some of the most controversial issues in current psychological research of autobiographical memory focusing particularly on issues of memory representations versus memory narratives and silence versus voice in the construction of the autobiographical self appropriate to one s cultural assumptions She concludes with historical analyses of the influences of the larger social political and economic forces on the autobiographical self and takes a forward look at the autobiographical self as a product of modern technology

The Development of Memory in Infancy and Childhood Mary L. Courage, Nelson Cowan, 2022-05-16 The Development of Memory in Infancy and Childhood provides a thorough update and expansion of the previous edition and offers new research on significant themes and ideas that have emerged in the past decade such as the cognitive neuroscience of memory development autobiographical memory and infantile amnesia and the cognitive and social factors that underlie memory for events In this volume Courage and Cowan bring together leading international experts to review the current state of the science of memory development in their own research areas They note questions of theory and basic science addressed in their research highlight the real world applications of those findings and propose an agenda for future research The book also considers the implications of their work for the development of atypical children specifically how these new findings might be adapted to enrich the lives of those children and to inform and validate our current expectations of individual differences in the development of typical children The first of three groups of chapters focuses on basic neurobiological perceptual and cognitive processes that underlie memory and its development i e encoding consolidation and storage retrieval The second group focuses primarily on the social contextual and cultural factors that enable shape and mediate these basic processes while the rest of the chapters focus on practical applications of this knowledge to real world settings and issues The book provides a new look at memory development including new topics such as spatial representation and spatial working prospective memory false memories and memory and culture This classic yet contemporary volume will appeal to senior undergraduate and graduate students of developmental and cognitive psychology as well as to developmental psychologists who want a compendium of key topics in memory development

Remembering and Forgetting Early Childhood Qi Wang, Sami Gülgöz, 2020-05-21 This book brings together scholarship that contributes diverse and new perspectives on childhood amnesia the scarcity of memories for very early life events The topics of the studies reported in the book range from memories of infants and young children for recent and distant life events to mother child conversations about memories for extended lifetime periods and to retrospective recollections of early childhood in adolescents and adults The methodological approaches are diverse and theoretical insights rich The findings together show that childhood amnesia is a complex and malleable phenomenon and that the waning of childhood amnesia and the development of autobiographical memory are shaped by a variety of interactive social and cognitive factors This book will facilitate discussion and deepen an understanding of the dynamics that influence the accessibility content accuracy and phenomenological qualities of memories from early childhood This book was originally published as a special issue of Memory

Bauer, 2014-01-14 The purpose of Remembering the Times of Our Lives Memory in Infancy and Beyond is to trace the development from infancy through adulthood in the capacity to form retain and later retrieve autobiographical or personal memories It is appropriate for scholars and researchers in the fields of cognitive psychology memory infancy and human development Narrative Development in Adolescence Kate C. McLean, Monisha Pasupathi, 2009-11-11 Monisha Pasupathi and Kate C McLean Where Have You Been Where Are You Going Narrative Identity in Adolescence How can we help youth move from childhood to adulthood in the most effective and positive way possible This is a question that parents educators researchers and policy makers engage with every day In this book we explore the potential power of the stories that youth construct as one route for such movement Our emphasis is on how those stories serve to build a sense of identity for youth and how the kinds of stories youth tell are informed by their broader contexts from parents and friends to nationalities and history Identity development and in particular narrative identity development concerns the ways in which adolescents must integrate their past and present and articulate and anticipate their futures Erikson 1968 Viewed in this way identity development is not only unique to adolescence and emergent adulthood but also intimately linked to childhood and to adulthood The title for this chapter borrowed from the Joyce Carol Oates story highlights the precarious position of adolescence in relation to the construction of identity In this story the protagonist poised between childhood and adulthood navigates a series of encounters with relatively little awareness of either her childhood past or her potential adult futures Her choices are risky and her future at the end looks dark Remembering Our Past David C. Rubin, 1999-02-13 This book reviews the latest research in the field of autobiographical memory
