Hair Matters Beauty Power And Black Womens Consciousness:

Hair Matters Ingrid Banks, 2000 Contains primary source material Sheila's Shop Kimberly Battle-Walters, 2004 Sheila's Shop invites us into a Southern beauty parlor to meet working class African American women Kimberly Battle Walters spent over sixteen months interviewing and listening to women at Sheila's Shop while researching this valuable ethnographic work Literature and the med Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling Elizabeth Johnson, 2016-04-08 Elizabeth Johnson's Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling develops the argument that one way Black women define themselves and each other is by the way they style groom their hair via endorsement by the media through advertisement idealized identification of Black female celebrities and encouragement by professional celebrity hair stylists who serve as change agents As a result hair becomes a physical manifestation of their self identity revealing a private and personal mindset Her research answers the following questions What is the relationship between Black females choice of hairstyles grooming and transmitted messages of aesthetics by the dominant culture through culturally specific magazines What role do the natural hair blogs vlogs play as a change agent in encouraging or discouraging consumers grooming their hair in its natural state What impact does a globalized consumer market of Black hair care products have on Hispanic Latinas and Bi Racial women Are Black female Generation Y members more likely to receive backlash for failure to conform their hair to dominant standards in their hair adornment in the workplace Johnson thus demonstrates that the major concern from messages sent to Black women about their hair is its impact on Black identity Thus the goal of Black women should be to break with hegemonic modes of seeing thinking and being for full liberation This critical and deep consciousness will debunk the messages told to Black women that their kinky frizzy thick hair is undesirable bad unmanageable and shackling Black Women in Interracial Relationships Kellina Craig-Henderson, 2017-07-28 According to the most recent U S census twice as many black men are involved in interracial relationships as black women Do black women consciously resist such involvement What motivates the relatively few women who are in these types of relationships And how do they navigate the unfamiliar terrain in intimacy One of the most popular explanations for black women's involvement in interracial intimacy is the unavailability of eligible black men This explanation focuses on the dismal statistics popularly discussed in reports that forecast lonely futures for African American females Craig Henderson explores another more provocative explanation She argues that some black women may disassociate from larger social stereotypes by consciously and strategically making choices that distance them from what is considered characteristic of the typical African American woman Scant serious attention has focused upon intimate interracial relationships perhaps because of a general reluctance to deal with two extremely provocative issues race and sex As rates of interracial relationships continue to increase discussions about interracial intimacy are relevant and timely Craig Henderson considers the continuing taboo of interracial relationships involving African Americans the way this taboo is changing and the way that contemporary race relations perpetuate longstanding stereotypes about race and sex The book includes in depth unstructured interviews with a wide range of black women currently involved in interracial intimate relationships Each individual discusses their relationships with family members beliefs about the influence of race in America unique problems associated with interracial intimacy as well as sexual attraction racial identity and children Of particular interest to specialists in race gender family and sexual issues this work is also accessible and appealing to general readers
