In a patchwork narrative interwoven with dark memories from her childhood, McElmurray deftly treads where few dare into a gritty honest exploration of the loss a birth mother experiences. The year was 1973, a time of social upheaval even in small town Kentucky where McElmurray grew up. More than a story of time and place, however, this is about a girl who at the age of sixteen relinquished her son at birth. Twenty five years would pass before McElmurray began sharing this part of her past with others and actively looking for her son. McElmurray's own troubled upbringing and her quest after a now fully grown son are the heart of her story. With unflinching honesty, McElmurray recounts both the painful surrendering and the surprise rediscovery of her son juxtaposed with her portrayal of her own mother who could not provide the love she needed. The dramatic result is a story of birthright lost and found and an exploration of the meaning of motherhood itself.      Wilson Bulletin for Librarians , 1929      Wilson Library Bulletin

Stanley Kunitz, Marie Duvernoy Loizeaux, 1929      Suture KJ Cerankowski, 2021 Combining memoir, lyrical essay and cultural criticism, KJ Cerankowski's Suture: Trauma and Trans becomes stitches together an embodied history of trauma and its ongoing impacts on the lived realities of trans, queer, and other marginalized subjects. Suture is a conjuration, a patchwork knitting of ghost stories attending to the wound as its own archive. It is a journey through many transitions of gender, through illness and chronic pain from childhood to adulthood, and back again of psyche and form in the wake of abuse and through the work of healing and of the self becoming in and through the ongoingness of settler colonial violence and its attendant subjugations of diverse forms of life. Refusing a traditional binary based gender transition narrative as well as dominant psychoanalytic narratives of trauma that center an individual process of symptom diagnosis and cure, Suture explores the refractive nature of trauma's dispersed roots and lingering effects. If the wounds of trauma are disquiet apparitions, repetitions within the cut, these stories tend the seams through which the simultaneous loneliness of mourning and togetherness of queer intersubjective relations converge. Across these essays, healing and indeed living is a state of perpetual becoming, surviving and loving in the nonlinearities of trauma, time, body, time, and queer time.      Pillar of Fire , 1908
