Historic Preservation for a Living City Robert R. Weyeneth, 2000 This text charts the changing philosophy of the American preservation movement since the 1950s It traces the Historic Charleston Foundation s approach to preservation from the organization s establishment to its concerns with the conservation of rural spaces and building craft traditions

Giving Preservation a History Randall F. Mason, Max Page, 2019-10-21 In this volume some of the leading figures in the field have been brought together to write on the roots of the historic preservation movement in the United States ranging from New York to Santa Fe Charleston to Chicago Giving Preservation a History explores the long history of historic preservation how preservation movements have taken a leading role in shaping American urban space and development how historic preservation battles have reflected broader social forces and what the changing nature of historic preservation means for efforts to preserve national urban and local heritage The second edition adds several new essays addressing key developing areas in the field by major new voices The new essays represent the broadening range of scholarship on historic preservation generated since the publication of the first edition taking better account of the role of cultural diversity and difference within the field while exploring the connections between preservation and allied concerns such as environmental sustainability LGBTQ and nonwhite identity and economic development

Challenging History Leah Worthington, Rachel Clare Donaldson, John W. White, 2021-07-22 A collection of essays that examine how the history of slavery and race in the United States has been interpreted and inserted at public historic sites For decades racism and social inequity have stayed at the center of the national conversation in the United States sustaining the debate around public historic places and monuments and what they represent These conversations are a reminder of the crucial role that public history professionals play in engaging public audiences on subjects of race and slavery This difficult history has often remained un or underexplored in our public discourse hidden from view by the tourism industry or even by public history professionals themselves as they created historic sites museums and public squares based on white centric interpretations of history and heritage Challenging History through a collection of essays by a diverse group of scholars and practitioners examines how difficult histories specifically those of slavery and race in the United States are being interpreted and inserted at public history sites and in public history work Several essays explore the successes and challenges of recent projects while others discuss gaps that public historians can fill at sites where Black history took place but is absent in the interpretation Through case studies the contributors reveal the entrenched false narratives that public history workers are countering in established public history spaces and the work they are conducting to reorient our collective understanding of the past History practitioners help the public better understand the world Their choices help to shape ideas about heritage and historical remembrances and can reform even transform worldviews through more inclusive and ethically narrated histories Challenging History invites public historians to consider the ethical implications of the narratives they choose to share and makes the case that an inclusive honest and complete portrayal of the past has the potential to reshape collective memory and ideas about the meaning of American history and citizenship A Talent for Living Barbara L. Bellows,2006-06-21 Bellows has produced the first biography of this very private woman and emotionally complex writer whose life story is also the history of a place and time Charleston in the first half of the twentieth century Monuments of Diverse Heritage in Early America Barry L. Stiefel,2025-10-01 Monuments of Diverse Heritage in Early America Placemaking and Preservation by Black Indigenous and Jewish Peoples explores a more inclusive history of preserving public historic sites At a time when some Americans have embraced white nationalism in response to unfolding demographic changes and others celebrate individual identities over all else an inclusive tolerant and unifying historical vision is sorely needed While past preservation efforts sometimes resulted in exclusionary forms of historical inspiration that need not be the case in the future Bringing greater attention to the diverse heritage of the United States will not only help dismantle the lingering remnants of exclusionary and elitist narratives but also celebrate a pluralistic and diverse past and present An inclusive empowering history can provide social cohesion while allowing room for individual groups to have authority over their pasts and representation in public side by side with one another Giving Preservation a History Max Page,Randall Mason,2004 Table of contents The Once and Future New York Randall Mason,2009 Rich with archival research The Once and Future New York documents the emergence of historic preservation in New York at the turn of the twentieth century Between 1890 and 1920 preservationists saved and restored buildings parks and monuments throughout the city s five boroughs that represented continuity with the past Suffragette City Elizabeth Darling,Nathaniel Walker,2019-08-08 SHORTLISTED FOR THE COLVIN PRIZE 2021 Awarded by the Society of Architectural Historians of Great Britain the Colvin Prize is one of the world s most prestigious honors in the field of architectural history The medal is awarded annually to the author or authors of an outstanding work of reference of broad importance to the discipline all modes of publication are eligible including catalogues gazetteers digital databases and online resources Suffragette City was nominated due to the new ways in which its contributors cast light on the work of women to shape the architecture of communities around the English speaking world Suffragette City brings together a collection of illustrated essays dedicated to exploring and analysing cases in which women have resourcefully leveraged or defied the politics of gender to form and reform architecture and urbanism Throughout much of modern history women have been assigned to the margins and expected to play passive social roles Suffragette City draws on nineteenth and twentieth century architectural case studies from the English speaking world including the USA South Africa Scotland India and England to examine places and moments when women stepped into the centre of public life and claimed opportunities to shape the fabrics of their communities Their engagements with the built environment consistently transcended architecture to achieve the level of urbanism as whole networks of relationships came into their purview transforming the architecture of socio political connection as well as the

Wells,Barry L. Stiefel,2018-09-20 Human Centered Built Environment Heritage Preservation addresses the question of how a human centred conservation approach can and should change practice For the most part there are few answers to this question because professionals in the heritage conservation field do not use social science research methodologies to manage cultural landscapes assess historical significance and inform the treatment of building and landscape fabric With few exceptions only academic theorists have explored these topics while failing to offer specific usable guidance on how the social sciences can actually be used by heritage professionals In exploring the nature of a human centred heritage conservation practice we explicitly seek a middle ground between the academy and practice theory and application fabric and meanings conventional and civil experts and orthodox and heterodox ideas behind practice and research We do this by positioning this book in a transdisciplinary space between these dichotomies as a way to give voice and respect to multiple perspectives without losing sight of our goal that heritage conservation practice should fundamentally benefit all people We believe that this approach is essential for creating an emancipated built heritage conservation practice that must successfully engage very different ontological and epistemological perspectives
