Late Holocene Research On Foragers And Farmers In The Desert West:

Late Holocene Research on Foragers and Farmers in the Desert West Barbara J. Roth, Maxine McBrinn, 2016 This book brings together the work of archaeologists investigating prehistoric hunter gatherers foragers and early farmers in both the Southwest and the Great Basin Most previous work on this topic has been regionally specific with researchers from each area favoring a different theoretical approach and little shared dialogue Here the studies of archaeologists working in both the Southwest and the Great Basin are presented side by side to illustrate the similarities in environmental challenges and cultural practices of the prehistoric peoples who lived in these areas and to explore common research questions addressed by both regions Three main themes link these papers the role of the environment in shaping prehistoric behavior flexibility in foraging and farming adaptations and diversity in settlement strategies Contributors cover a range of topics including the varied ways hunter gatherers adapted to arid environments the transition from hunting and gathering to farming and the reasons for it the variation in early farmers across the Southwest and Great Basin and the differing paths followed as they developed settled villages

The ^AOxford Handbook of Southwest Archaeology Barbara Mills, Severin Fowles, 2017-08-15 This volume takes stock of the empirical evidence theoretical orientations and historical reconstructions of archaeology of the American Southwest Themed chapters on method and theory are accompanied by comprehensive overviews of all major cultural traditions in the region from the Paleoindians to Chaco Canyon to the onset of Euro American imperialism

A History of Mobility in New Mexico Lindsay M. Montgomery, 2021-03-30 A History of Mobility in New Mexico uses the often enigmatic chipped stone assemblages of the Taos Plateau to chart patterns of historical mobility in northern New Mexico Drawing on evidence of spatial patterning and geochemical analyses of stone tools across archaeological landscapes the book examines the distinctive mobile modalities of different human communities documenting evolving logics of mobility residential logistical pastoral and settler colonial In particular it focuses on the diversity of ways that Indigenous peoples have used and moved across the Plateau landscape from deep time into the present The analysis of Indigenous movement patterns is grounded in critical Indigenous philosophy which applies core principles within Indigenous thought to the archaeological record in order to challenge conventional understandings of occupation use and abandonment Providing an Indigenizing approach to archaeological research and new evidence for the long term use of specific landscape features A History of Mobility in New Mexico presents an innovative approach to human environment interaction for readers and scholars of North American history

Archaeology on the Threshold Joseph D. Wardle, Robert K. Hitchcock, Matthew Schmader, Pei-Lin Yu, 2022-12-30 Incorporating data from across six continents and tracing the human experience from the Late Pleistocene to the present this volume examines transitional periods of cultural and environmental change through the lenses of archaeology and ethnography perspective Human exceptionalism and our place in nature have long been topics of academic consideration and archaeology has been synonymous with an exclusively human past to the detriment of gaining a more nuanced understanding of one that is shared Encompassing more than just our relationships with animals the book considers what we can learn about the human past without humans as the focus of the question The volume digs deep into our understanding of interaction with plants fungi microbes and even the fundamental building blocks of life DNA Multispecies Archaeology examines what it means to be human and non human from a variety of perspectives providing a new lens through which to view the past Challenging not only the subject or object of archaeology but also broader disciplinary identities the volume is a landmark in this new and evolving area of scholarly interest

Multispecies Archaeology Suzanne E. Pilaar Birch, 2018-02-07 Multispecies Archaeology explores the issue of ecological and cultural novelty in the archaeological record from a multispecies

Pushing Boundaries in Southwestern Archaeology Stephen E. Nash, Erin L. Baxter, 2023-04-07 Pushing Boundaries in Southwestern Archaeology draws together the proceedings from the sixteenth biennial Southwest Symposium In exploring the conference theme contributors consider topics ranging from the resuscitation of archaeomagnetic dating to the issue of Athapaskan origins from collections based studies of social identity foodways and obsidian trade to the origins of a rock art tradition and the challenges of a deeply buried archaeological record The first of the volume's four sections examines the status history and prospects of Bears Ears National Monument the broader regulatory and political boundaries that complicate the nature and integrity of the archaeological record and the cultural contexts and legal stakes of archaeological inquiry The second section focuses on chronological big data in the context of pre Columbian history and the potential and limits of what can be empirically derived from chronometric analysis of the past The chapters in the third section advocate for advancing collections based research focusing on the vast and often untapped research potential of archives previously excavated museum collections and legacy data The final section examines the permeable boundaries involved in Plains Pueblo interactions obvious in the archaeological record but long in need of analysis interpretation and explanation Contributors James R Allison Erin Baxter Benjamin A Bellorado Katelyn J Bishop Eric Blinman J Royce Cox J Andrew Darling Kaitlyn E Davis William H Doelle B Sunday Eiselt Leigh Anne Ellison Josh Ewing Samantha G Fladd Gary M Feinman Jeffrey R Ferguson Severin Fowles Willie Grayeyes Matthew Guebard Saul L Hedquist Greg Hodgins Lucas Hoedl John W Ives Nicholas Kessler Terry Knight Michael W Lindeman Hannah V Mattson Myles R Miller Lindsay Montgomery Stephen E Nash Sarah Oas Jill Onken Scott G Ortman Danielle J Riebe John Ruple Will G Russell Octavius Seowtewa Deni J Seymour James M Vint Adam S Watson

Bioarchaeology of Frontiers and Borderlands Cristina I. Tica, Debra L. Martin, 2019-08-21 Bioarchaeology of Frontiers and Borderlands presents a series of cases addressing how living on or interacting with the frontier can affect health and socioeconomic status The goal is to explore how people in the past might have maintained created or manipulated their identity while living in a place of liminality stuck in between worlds The zone of in betweenness of demarcation between two or more spheres of influence is a very dynamic and potentially violent place This book aims to explore how different groups stuck in these zones were affected how they interacted with the different worlds and how they lived their lives on the edge Agricultural Beginnings in the American Southwest Barbara J. Roth, 2016-10-12 How did agriculture come about in the American Southwest What environmental and social factors led to the cultivation of plants How in turn did the use of these new agricultural products affect the ancient peoples living in the region In pursuit of answers to these questions Barbara Roth synthesizes data from both CRM and academic research to explore the emergence and impact of Southwestern agriculture Roth examines agricultural beginnings across the entire Southwest both northern and southern and across culture groups residing there Beyond simply addressing the arrival and widespread adoption of specific cultigens she pays particular attention to human factors such as patterns of production and variability in agricultural developments Her consideration of broad social and environmental dynamics affecting forager diets and adaptive strategies sheds new light on what we know and what we should ask about the transition from foraging to farming

Broken Bones, Broken Bodies Debra L. Martin, Caryn E. Tegtmeier, 2017-07-14 Injury recidivism is a continuing health problem in the modern clinical setting and has been part of medical literature for some time However it has been largely absent from forensic and bioarchaeological scholarship despite the fact that practitioners work closely with skeletal remains and in many cases skeletal trauma The contributors to this edited collection seek to close this gap by exploring the role that injury recidivism and accumulative trauma plays in bioarchaeological and forensic contexts Case examples from prehistoric historic and modern settings are included to highlight the avenues through which injury recidivism can be studied and analyzed in skeletal remains and to illustrate the limitations of studying injury recidivism in deceased populations

Interaction and Connectivity in the Greater Southwest Karen Harry, Barbara J. Roth, 2019-03-21 This volume of proceedings from the fourteenth biennial Southwest Symposium explores different kinds of social interaction that occurred prehistorically across the Southwest The authors use diverse and innovative approaches and a variety of different data sets to examine the economic social and ideological implications of the different forms of interaction presenting new ways to examine how social interaction and connectivity influenced cultural developments in the Southwest The book observes social interactions role in the diffusion of ideas and material culture the way different social units especially households interacted within and between communities and the importance of interaction and interconnectivity in understanding the archaeology of the Southwest's northern periphery Chapters demonstrate a movement away from strictly economic driven models of social connectivity and interaction and illustrate that members of social groups lived in dynamic situations that did not always have clear cut and unwavering boundaries Social connectivity and interaction were often fluid changing over time Interaction and Connectivity in the Greater Southwest is an impressive collection of established and up and coming Southwestern archaeologists collaborating to strengthen the theoretical underpinnings of the discipline It will be of interest to professional and academic archaeologists as well as researchers with interests in diffusion identity cultural transmission borders large scale interaction or social organization

From Foragers to Farmers Ehud Weiss, 2009-08-01 This volume celebrates the career of archaeobotanist Professor Gordon C Hillman Twenty eight papers cover a wide range of topics reflecting the great influence that Hillman has had in the field of archaeobotany Many of his favourite research topics are covered the body of the text being split into four sections Personal reflections on Professor Hillman's career archaeobotanical theory and method ethnoarchaeological and cultural studies and ancient plant use from sites and regions around the world The collection demonstrates as Gordon Hillman believes that the study of archaeobotany is not only valuable but vital for any study of humanity Mobility and pastoralism in the Egyptian Western Desert. Steinplätze in the Holocene regional settlement patterns Marina Gallinaro, 2018-03-15 This volume presents the results of a long study begun in 2004 within the framework of the Archaeological Mission in the Farafra Oasis of Egypt directed by Barbara Barich and Giulio Lucarini of the Sapienza University of Rome now under the auspices of ISMEO The book focuses on the features known as Steinplatz type hearths and their role in the settlement patterns of the human groups living in the Egyptian Western Desert during the middle and late Holocene Steinplätze are concentrations of burned and fire cracked stones that vary in shape and size and have often been slightly elevated above the present ground level by post depositional erosion processes Occurring both as isolated features and in clusters they are often the only visible structures or even traces of ancient settlements The study of these features is closely interconnected with the mobility strategies of the communities that inhabited this desert region during a period of higher average rainfall than at present but also characterised by significant climate fluctuations with humid periods interrupted by dry spells and eventually ending in an overall trend towards greater desertification The use of the Steinplatz type hearths was most widespread in the second half of the sixth millennium BC when mobile occupation strategies replaced a more sedentary model An analysis of the Farafra Oasis Steinplatz is coupled with a general reassessment of the subsistence and mobility models hitherto proposed for the Eastern Sahara suggesting an integrated occupation system for Farafra itself The economy of the forager herders of the middle Holocene during the climate optimum 6900–5550 cal BC seems to have relied significantly on herding small livestock but also on hunting and likely concentrated on the gathering of wild cereals such as sorghum During the climate optimum forms of seasonal stabilisation of the settlement strategy seem to emerge with the alternating occupation of two different winter and summer villages consisting of clusters of stone slab huts short term task specific camps using Steinplatz logistically completed the system After this phase only short term camps with Steinplatz were occupied These were probably directly dependent on the wettest areas at the centre of the oases and made use of a tethered exploitation strategy with brief movements from the central oasis daisy chain movements The use strategies of the Steinplatz type hearths within the mobile settlement system are outlined adopting a clear and immediately assessable model Yet although they are among the most distinctive of the Sahara's archaeological features Steinplatz have received little systematic attention in recent decades Marina Gallinaro's work thus marks a new phase in their study one that draws them back into discussions of how early livestock keeping populations in Northeast Africa used the resources and landscapes to the west of the Nile along a trajectory of increasing aridification that eventually culminated in the desert we see today Lucidly written Gallinaro's volume will I believe help inspire individuals to take up the research agenda she sets out At a time when so much of the Sahara is off limits to archaeological fieldwork it is deeply gratifying to see here yet more evidence of the thoroughness and high quality that have characterized the work of Italian archaeologists in this region of Africa over many decades The continuing publication of their research Marina Gallinaro's included in the Arid Zone Archaeology monograph series will surely help sustain widespread interest in Saharan archaeology until it becomes possible to excavate and survey again free of current geopolitical restrictions May that day come soon Prof Peter Mitchell University of Oxford UK

Late Quaternary Climate Change and Human Adaptation in Arid China D.B. Madsen, F. Chen, X. Gao, 2011-09-22 Due to political pressures prior to the 1990s little was known about the nature of human foraging adaptations in the deserts grasslands and mountains of north western China during the last glacial period Even less was known about the transition to agriculture that followed Now open to foreign visitation there is now an increasing understanding of the foraging strategies which led both to the development of millet agriculture and to the utilization of the extreme environments of the Tibetan Plateau This text explores the transition from the foraging societies of the Late Paleolithic to the emergence of settled farming societies and the emergent pastoralism of the middle Neolithic striving to help answer the diverse and numerous questions of this critical transitional period Examines the transition from foraging societies of the Late Paleolithic to the emergence of settled farming societies and the emergent pastoralism of the middle Neolithic Explores explanatory models for the links between climate change and cultural change that may have influenced the development of millet agriculture Reviews the relationship between climate change and population expansions and contradictions during the late Quaternary Models for the Millennium Charlotte Beck,1999 Models for the Millennium presents an overview of the development and current practice of anthropology in the Great Basin This volume includes such topics as historical issues models for past and present anthropological and archaeological phenomena and cooperation among anthropologists Native Americans and government agencies The volume includes four sections Historical Development describes the development of ethnology archaeology and paleoecology in the Great Basin Current Issues covers topics in general theory paleoecology ethnography and linguistics prehistory and cultural resource management Models of Explanation examines various approaches to modeling aspects of the archaeological paleoecological and ethnographic record in such areas as subsistence mobility iconography and gender Finally Models of Cooperation discusses how anthropologists Native Americans and various agencies come to terms with such issues as burial and sacred sites range blight and the destruction of the archaeological record Histories of Maize in Mesoamerica John Staller,Robert Tykot,Bruce Benz,2016-06-16 Abridged and updated version of the basic work on the development of maize including 20 chapters of interest to Mesoamerican specialists updated with recent findings and interpretations From Hunters to Farmers John Desmond Clark,Steven A. Brandt,1984-01-01 Hunters, Fishers and Foragers in Wales Malcolm Lillie,2015-07-31 Malcolm Lillie presents a major new holistic appraisal of the evidence for the Mesolithic occupation of Wales The story begins with a discourse on the Palaeolithic background In order to set the entire Mesolithic period into its context subsequent chapters follow a sequence from the palaeoenvironmental background through a consideration of the use of stone tools settlement patterning and evidence for subsistence strategies and the range of available resources Less obvious aspects of hunter forager and subsequent hunter fisher forager groups include the arenas of symbolism ritual and spirituality that would have been embedded in everyday life The author here endeavors to integrate an evaluation of these aspects of Mesolithic society in developing a social narrative of Mesolithic lifeways throughout the text in an effort to bring the past to life in a meaningful and considered way The term hunter fisher foragers implies a particular combination of subsistence activities but whilst some groups may well have integrated this range of economic activities into their subsistence strategies others may not have The situation in coastal areas of Wales in relation to subsistence settlement and even spiritual matters would not necessarily be the same as in upland areas even when the same groups moved between these zones in the landscape The volume concludes with a discussion of the theoretical basis for the shift away from the exploitation of wild resources towards the integration of domesticates into subsistence strategies i e the shift from food procurement to food production and assesses the context of the changes that occurred as human groups re orientated their socioeconomic political and ritual beliefs in light of newly available resources influences from the continent and ultimately their social condition at the time of transition Climate Changes in the Holocene: Eustathios Chiotis, 2018-11-15 This book highlights climate as a complex physical chemical biological and geological system in perpetual change under astronomical predominantly solar control It has been shaped to some degree through the past glaciation cycles repeated in the last three million years The Holocene the current interglacial epoch which started ca 11 700 years ago marks the transition from the Stone Age to the unprecedented cultural evolution of our civilization Significant climate changes have been recorded in natural archives during the Holocene including the rapid waning of ice sheets millennial shifting of the monsoonal fringe in the northern hemisphere and abrupt centennial events A typical case of severe environmental change is the greening of Sahara in the Early Holocene and the gradual desertification again since the fifth millennium before present Climate Changes in the Holocene Impact Adaptation and Resilience investigates the impact of natural climate changes on humans and civilization through case studies from various places periods and climates Earth and human society are approached as a complex system thereby emphasizing the necessity to improve adaptive capacity in view of the anthropogenic global warming and ecosystem degradation Features Written by distinguished experts the book presents the fundamentals of the climate system the unparalleled progress achieved in the last decade in the fields of intensified research for improved understanding of the carbon cycle climate components and their interaction Presents the application of paleoclimatology and modeling in climate reconstruction Examines the new era of satellite based climate monitoring and the prospects of reduced carbon dioxide emissions
