Student Entrepreneurship in the Social Knowledge Economy Manlio Del Giudice, Maria Rosaria Della Peruta, Elias G. Carayannis, 2014-05-20. Traditionally the study of entrepreneurial behavior focuses on such factors as i) the personality characteristics that distinguish the entrepreneur from non-entrepreneur and ii) demographic characteristics such as gender, age, family antecedents and education. With particular respect to investigating the development, acquisition and dissemination of entrepreneurial skills and behaviors, the authors focus on the university environment as a locus of research and innovation where students are exposed to a wide variety of influences that are enhanced by a high degree of connectivity. The underlying theme of this volume is to develop our understanding of the sociology of student entrepreneurial behavior and in doing so attempt to synthesize literature investigating individual talent with the literature on concurrent knowledge sourcing in the pursuit of entrepreneurial activities. Specifically, the authors investigate the degree to which access to diverse knowledge in addition to such psychological characteristics and tolerance of ambiguity and risk-taking influences the nature and probability of entrepreneurial success. Moreover, they explore the role of social media and social networking in facilitating access to distributed and disparate information and knowledge. Their research addresses such timely questions as: Where do entrepreneurial opportunities come from? How can higher education best stimulate the creation of firms emanating from young and smart minds in colleges and universities? What is the value of MOOCs for frequent early and thick communication among the various specialties needed to accomplish entrepreneurial projects? How do we know whether social media affect students' responses to new knowledge and new ideas? To what extent do educational practices affect racial and ethnic differences in student entrepreneurship? What is the role of the indigenous minority student entrepreneur in establishing high technology firms? The result is a multi-dimensional approach that sheds light on the dynamics of education, knowledge creation, social networking, innovation and new business development.

The impact of regional policy on entrepreneurship Christian Nicke, 2008-01-03. Essay from the year 2006 in the subject Business Economics, Economic Policy, grade 4.0. University of Paderborn, Faculty of Business and Economics, course Entrepreneurship Studies, language English.

Abstract: It seems helpful to me first to clarify the two most important terms of the title of this essay. The first term is regional policy, that includes two parts that should be explained: region and special policy for regions. Regions are marked through a number of special criteria: singleness, unique position, otherness, differentiation criteria, commonness, culture, traditions, landscape, collective identity, shared history, regional awareness, feeling of belonging together, identification, government's organization, administration policy, elected representation, self-determination, administration.

homogeneity socio economical cultural ethnical o functional togetherness networks o power connection domination dependency interconnections o inter organisational networks socio economical milieu o openness cross linking knowledge transfer o global competitiveness competition networks The policy that especially affects the concerns of regions is called regional policy Regional policy aims to support the planned development of regions in the way of coordinated measure setting As regional policy is embedded in the nationwide policy it aims from the viewpoint of the national government to maximise economic growth and minimise social costs As development of regions always includes entrepreneurship to create regional value I would like to collect state of the art knowledge about how regional policy can support entrepreneurship Here the question appears what could be understood under regional policy Regional policy Regional policy is the sum of law strategies and measures for setting and influencing a framework and processes in particular areas of a nation through the government With special regional policy government seeks to reduce spatial disparities in economic The last term I would like to introduce for my essay is Entrepreneurship In this context entrepreneurship is not each business activity in a wider understanding of the term but I mean the field of founding new enterprises based on an idea for providing products or services that are not available in or near the region yet

Modern Entrepreneurship in Business Practice: Selected Issues Marek Matejun, Anna Walecka, 2013-10-01 Frontiers in Entrepreneurship Boris Urban, 2010-07-23 The series Perspectives in Entrepreneurship A Research Companion provides an authoritative overview of specialised themes in entrepreneurship Each of the four books presents the conceptual framework and foundations underlying a specialist field of scholarship in entrepreneurship The series is inspired by the dearth of higher level texts available in South Africa failing to encapsulate the rigorous research evident in the growing field of entrepreneurship internationally. The content is driven by a judicious selection and interpretation of key knowledge set in context by introducing and delineating major topics previously not discussed in depth in traditional entrepreneurial texts. A blend of theoretical and empirical evidence is presented that collectively demonstrates the convergence of thinking on a particular theme. Identifying and evaluating the most seminal and impactful scholarly research on different subject areas where entrepreneurship is at the core serves to achieve this convergence. By applying a theoretical lens to central issues about entrepreneurship rather than focusing on practical issues of how to the series has a conceptual outlook with specialist areas in detailed narrative. The book is deliberately structured to add value to learners who are undertaking secondary programmes in entrepreneurship by building on basic entrepreneurship principles and theory. The series builds on fundamental entrepreneurial texts. Each book provides a valuable knowledge base for educators, third year and postgraduate students, researchers, policy makers and service providers.
