Spencer, Sandra Vavra, 2015-01-01 The Common Core Standards have recently been adopted in most states across the nation and teachers are in the process of getting to the core of these standards Teaching to standards is not a new concept teachers have adapted to new standards every few years for quite some time And teachers are adaptable as can be seen in this book We are writing this book to demonstrate how teachers use research based strategies to meet Common Core Standards while still focusing on students Our goal is to help teachers visualize students in action as other teachers describe the implementation of research based strategies in their own classrooms show student work samples and provide reflections of student success in achieving the standards Many Common Core Standards books focus on the standards but our approach focuses on strategies that engage the students in the classroom showing how different teachers at varying grade levels have used the strategies to meet the standards With this focus we believe that teachers gain a new and positive perspective on approaching the new standards and see the flexibility of strategies for meeting standards across subject areas We have examined research on the strategies with the purpose of giving teachers a brief description of why these strategies work before giving actual examples from classrooms We also work closely with teachers in the public schools and have our finger on the pulse of what is happening in the public schools one of the current stressors being unpacking the Common Core Standards This book actually focuses on practice We begin by laying out a rationale in our first chapter The Core Value s of Education Then each chapter focuses on a strategy including 1 a brief description about the research supporting each strategy and 2 several examples from different grade levels which include a description of how the strategy was used student work samples and a reflection on the use of the strategy The research descriptions are fairly short because while we believe professional educators aka teachers in this case should know the research that supports practice we know they are not typically interested in long diatribes about the research

Obiakor, Tachelle Banks, Anthony F. Rotatori, 2024-06-01 The COVID 19 pandemic triggered and continues to trigger many changes in K 12 education some major like learning remotely from home and some minor like sitting farther apart on the school bus While most students have had routines interrupted the children perhaps most affected by that disruption are students with special education needs The challenges we currently face should not undermine what we have accomplished over the last 60 years to protect students with disabilities and those from traditionally marginalized backgrounds Instead we must take an honest proactive and collaborative approach to the challenges laid bare To do so we must reckon with the fact that during a pandemic that disproportionately impacted traditionally marginalized communities and people with disabilities we collectively dropped the ball for students receiving special education services and we need to consider the continued consequences Further we must acknowledge that many students with disabilities have found virtual and remote learning to be more liberating and accessible for their learning strengths needs and preferences This text addresses how we must reconcile disparate realities of the special educational experience during pandemic Students parents teachers and school officials must align themselves together so that they can provide necessary services and support systems to students with disabilities during unpredictable times These efforts will help leverage opportunities to disrupt improve and ignite educational experiences and opportunities for our children and youth particularly those with disabilities
