Exploring the Math and Art Connection Daniel Jarvis,Irene Naested,2012 Daniel Jarvis and Irene Naested highlight the natural association between math and art in a series of practical ideas for the classroom because when students understand the math art connection their understanding and confidence increase in both subjects Through innovative teaching strategies and more than 100 rich learning experiences Jarvis and Naested give teachers a wealth of engaging tools to explore the math art connection with their own students This connection is established through examinations of natural and human designed objects from how pine cone scales spiral out in a Fibonacci sequence to how geometric shapes combine in architecture to form some of the most beautiful structures on the planet Philip Johnson and His Mischief Christian Bjone, The Images Publishing Group, 2014-04-04 In the world of modern art the idea of appropriation or the conscious manipulation of the recognised world of another artist has long been accepted as a legitimate strategy in criticism of the tradition of art authorship challenging the context of viewing contemporary work and the manipulation of omnipresent media images The world of art itself is fair game to be pillaged or mined in the production of new art but there is almost no recognised equivalent aesthetic in architecture Philip Johnson consistently dealt with the concept of appropriation and used it as a design strategy from the very beginning of his illustrious career A singular taste maker Philip Johnson influenced art architecture and design during the second half of the 20th century Philip Johnson and His Mischief Appropriation in Art and Architecture looks at the concept of appropriation and how Johnson s style was influenced first by his mentor Mies van der Rohe and then by post modern ideas and artists This title serves to review Johnson s body of work and show that far from being a weakness his use of appropriation was a major part of his innovative success

Mesoscopic Phenomena in Multifunctional Materials Avadh Saxena, Antoni Planes, 2014-07-17 A highly coveted objective of modern materials science is to optimize multiple coupled functionalities in the same single phase material and control the cross response via multiple external fields One important example of such multi functionality are multiferroic materials where two or more ferroic properties are intrinsically coupled They include among others the magneto electric and magneto structural materials which are well understood at the nano and continuum length and time scales The next emerging frontier is to connect these two limiting scales by probing the mesoscale physics of these materials This book not only attempts to provide this connection but also presents the state of the art of the present understanding and potential applications of many related complex multifunctional materials The main emphasis is on the multiscale bridging of their properties with the aim to discover novel properties and applications in the context of materials by design This interdisciplinary book serves both graduate students and expert researchers alike Mosaics Martin Cheek, 1997 Over 35 projects and ideas for indoor and outdoor mosaics including frames pots boxes paving stones and a splashback Cover
