

The background of the cover is a detailed illustration of a stone statue in a forest. The statue is a classical-style male figure with a beard and long hair, wearing a red cloak. It is positioned on the right side, with its arms extended forward, holding two long, thin, white objects that resemble swords or spears. The forest is dense with tall, textured tree trunks and some green foliage at the base. At the top, a decorative white frame contains the title.
