Area Handbook for Kenya Irving Kaplan, 1976 Abolishing School Fees in Africa , 2009 Progress in literacy and learning especially through universal primary education has done more to advance human conditions than perhaps any other policy Our generation has the possibility of becoming the first generation ever to offer all children access to good quality basic education But it will only happen if we have the political commitment at the country as well as at the international level to give priority to achieve this first in human history And it will only happen if also those who cannot afford to pay school fees can benefit from a complete cycle of good quality primary education Investment in good quality fee free primary education should be a cornerstone in any government s poverty reduction strategy

Positioning Diversity in Kenyan Schools Malve von, 2022-06-01 Education is considered key for societies to achieve greater social cohesion and equality Yet schools as the main providers of formal education have increasingly come into question concerning their role in manifesting and perpetuating social categorisations inequalities and discrimination instead of decreasing existing fragmentations and challenging power relations and hierarchies As a diverse society Kenya is faced with power struggles and rivalries between different groups for instance along ethnic lines often constructed deep in colonial history This affects teaching and learning in school and the result is that Kenya is faced with vast disparities in terms of educational access and success rendering some social groups marginalised and others favoured Positioning Diversity at Kenyan Schools explores the ways in which teachers in Kenyan primary and secondary schools experience and deal with social categorisations and diversity in terms of ethnicity gender wealth culture religion etc in their professional practice and in the current education system Using critical pedagogy and diversity theory as a lens for positioning diversity in Kenyan schools the questions that this book sets out to answer are In what ways do the teachers and schools practices lead to transformation in terms of more social equality and less discrimination In what ways do the practices manifest existing group categorisations hierarchies and discrimination How can schools and teaching practices in postcolonial Kenya become more inclusive and foster social cohesion and equality

Irvine, 2013-11-11 Against the background of NATO's Istanbul conference of 1971 Cronbach and Drenth 1972 the Kingston conference shows that great progress has been made by the community of cross cultural psychologists The progress is as much in the psychology of the investigators as in the investigations being reported In 1971 the investigators were mostly strangers to each other Behind their reports lay radically different field experiences disparate research traditions and mutually contradictory social ideals Istanbul was not a Tower of Babel but participants did speak past each other Now a community exists thanks to the meetings of NATO and the International Association for Cross Cultural Psychology to flourishing journals and the Triandis et al 1980 Handbook The members tend to know each other can anticipate how their formulations will fall on the ears of others and accept superficially divergent approaches as making up a collective enterprise Ten years ago there was open conflict between those who confronted exotic peoples with traditional tests and applied traditional interpretations to the responses and the relativists who insisted that tasks test taking and interpretation cannot be standardized in the ways that matter Today's investigators are conscious of the need to revalidate tasks carried into alien settings they often prefer to redesign the mode of presentation and to attune the subject to test taking They face the difficulties squarely and recognize that even the best means of coping are only partially successful Computers in Third-World Schools David Hawkrige, John Jaworski, Harry McMahon, 2016-07-27 The reasons why governments of developing countries should put computer technology in their schools are highly controversial but no less than the actual use being made of these comparatively expensive machines and their software This book looks at experience in African Asian and Arabic speaking countries that already have computers in some of their schools It is based mainly on research in China Jordan Kenya Mauritius Sri Lanka and Tunisia The authors debate policy and practice in the light of experience to date They identify the rationales commonly deployed by Ministries of Education and international agencies but argue themselves for a long term view of the potential of computers to liberalise education and through such education to reduce dependency and inequity World Survey of Education ,1966
