Lobbying in the European Parliament Maja Kluger Dionigi, 2016-12-01 This book explains when and how interest groups are influential in the European Parliament which has become one of the most important lobbying venues in the EU Yet we know little about the many ways in which interest groups and lobbyists influence parliamentary politics The author offers insights on four key cases of lobbying based on the analysis of EU documents lobbying letters and 150 interviews She argues that lobbying success depends on a number of factors most notably the degree of counter lobbying issue salience and committee receptiveness These factors are brought together in the framework of Triple I interests issues and institutions to determine the success or failure of lobbying This book will be of use to students and scholars interested in EU politics and governance EU decision making and interest group politics along with policy makers and practitioners

The Political Influence of Business in the European Union Andreas Dur, David Marshall, Patrick Bernhagen, 2019-02-28 Many citizens politicians and political activists voice concern about the political influence of business in the European Union But do business interests really pull the strings in Brussels Contrary to expectations this book shows that business interests are no more influential than other interests in shaping contemporary EU policies Andreas D r David Marshall and Patrick Bernhagen present an original argument that stresses the role of public actors in facilitating or impeding interest groups lobbying success Novel data on a large number of legislative proposals on the EU s agenda and three case studies present strong support for this argument The Political Influence of Business in the European Union offers new insights into how lobbying success depends on the demand and supply of information as well as new ideas on how to measure lobbying success The book advances a fresh perspective on the question of business power and shows why business interests often lose in the policy struggle

The Oxford Handbook of Business and Government David Coen, Wyn Grant, Graham Wilson, 2010-02-25 Business is one of the major power centres in modern society The state seeks to check and channel that power so as to serve broader public policy objectives However if the way in which business is governed is ineffective or over burdensome it may become more difficult to achieve desired goals such as economic growth or higher levels of employment In a period of international economic crisis the study of how business and government relate to each other in different countries is of more central importance than ever These relationships have been studied from a number of different disciplinary perspectives business studies economics economic history law and political science and all of these are represented in this handbook The first part of the book provides an introduction to the ways in which five different disciplines have approached the study of business and government. The second section on the firm and the state looks at how these entities interact in different settings emphasising such phenomena as the global firm and varieties of capitalism. The third section examines how business interacts with government in different parts of the world including the United States, the EU, China, Japan and South America. The fourth section reviews changing patterns of market governance through a unifying theme of the role of regulation. Business government relations can play out in divergent ways in different policy and the fifth section examines the contrasts between different key arenas such as competition policy, trade policy, training policy and environmental policy. The volume provides an authoritative overview with chapters by leading authorities on the current state of knowledge of business government relations but also points to ways in which this work might be developed in the future e.g. through a political theory of the firm.

Promoting National Priorities in EU Foreign Policy Tomas Weiss, 2017-01-06. How do smaller member states promote their interests in EU foreign policy and external relations? EU membership can be seen to affect member states' foreign policy in two ways: either by restricting national policies or empowering states in a challenging global environment. There is a general agreement, however, that the member states, especially smaller ones, have to engage actively in policy making in order to promote their particular interest. This cross-policy comparison of the behaviour of Czech Republic's representatives in the Council and the methods they use to influence the decision making applies categorisation from lobbying literature to analyse the behaviour of the member state's representatives and contributes to two strands of scholarship on European Union politics: decision making in the EU and Europeanization. The book maps the methods of interest promotion that can be used by a member state and analyses the differences in interest promotion across external policy areas.

National Interest Organizations in the EU Multilevel System Rainer Eising, Daniel Rasch, Patrycja Rozbicka, 2020-05-21. Political scientists have always accorded interest organizations a prominent place in European Union EU policy making because they connect the EU institutions to citizens, provide important information to EU policy makers and control resources that impact on the problem solving capacity of EU policies. In other words, they are vital to both the input legitimacy and the output legitimacy of the EU. So far, research on interest organizations in EU policy making has concentrated on EU level interest organizations and EU level politics. This edited book draws attention to the role national interest organizations play in the EU multilevel system. All contributions present state of the art research on that subject in the form of theory driven empirical analyses. Chapters 8 and 9 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non-Commercial No Derivatives CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license.

Functional and Territorial Interest Representation in the EU Michèle Knodt, Christine Quittkat, Justin Greenwood, 2014-07-16 Despite a substantial legacy of literature on EU interest representation there is no systematic analysis available on whether a European model of interest representation in EU governance is detectable across functional and territorial categories of actors Functional actors include associations for business interests the professions and trade unions as well as NGOs and social movements territorial based entities include public actors such as regional and local government as well as actors primarily organised at territorial level What are the similarities and differences between territorial and functional based entities and are the similarities greater than the differences Are the differences sufficient to justify the use of different analytical tools Are the differences within these categories more significant than those across them Is there a professionalised European lobbying class across all actor types Does national embeddedness make a difference Which factors explain the success of actors to participate in European governance This book was originally published as special issue of Journal of European Integration

Legislative Lobbying in Context Jan Beyers, Caelesta Braun, Heike Klüver, 2017-10-02 The lack of previous research into political interest groups and taking into account policy specific and institutional context characteristics is largely due to research designs that have been primarily focused on a small number of policy debates with the result that contextual characteristics were largely held constant This book brings together articles from different modules that are part of a larger European Collaborative Research Project INTEREURO carried out by research teams in nine different countries under the auspices of the European Science Foundation The main goal of the book is to analyse strategies framing and influence processes for a set of 125 legislative proposals submitted by the European Commission in an effort to better understand the involvement of interest organizations in the decision making process of the EU Contributors draw on sophisticated and innovative policy driven samples of interest group mobilization allowing them to
