Thornington Hall Thornham Hall Ufford Place      The British Country House Revival Ben Cowell,2024 British country houses have experienced a renaissance since the early 1970s A new accord is needed today recognising the increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British cultural life Fifty years ago the future for country houses in Britain looked bleak The Victoria Albert Museum s exhibition The Destruction of the Country House which opened in October 1974 charted the loss of over a thousand country houses in the preceding century The makers of the exhibition warned that history could be about to repeat itself because of the threats besetting mansion properties principally from higher taxation Houses faced the prospect of having to be stripped of their collections and sold for use as offices hotels or hospitals with their parks and gardens turned into golf clubs Government might afford to save just a handful of the most significant of these places working in tandem with charities such as the National Trust The rest would be consigned to history This book traces the history of country houses in Britain from the Destruction exhibition to the present day The wave of country house losses anticipated in 1974 never actually happened Instead over the next five decades Britain s country houses experienced a renaissance Fiscal rules changed in the mid 1970s to make it easier for owners to hold on to their assets Economic improvements in the 1980s and 1990s allowed many houses and estates to develop profitable commercial businesses All of this was achieved only after dedicated campaigning from heritage organisations in support of the country house cause The book argues that a new accord is needed today to recognise and value the ongoing if increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British life and culture in the twenty first century      Lost Country Houses of Nottinghamshire Maxwell Craven,2025-05-15 A fascinating description of the lost country houses of Nottinghamshire will be of interest to all those who live in the county or know it well

Country houses and the British Empire, 1700-1930 Stephanie Barczewski,2017-02-01 Country houses and the British empire 1700 1930 assesses the economic and cultural links between country houses and the Empire between the eighteenth and twentieth centuries Using sources from over fifty British and Irish archives it enables readers to better understand the impact of the empire upon the British metropolis by showing both the geographical variations and its different cultural manifestations Barczewski offers a rare scholarly analysis of the history of country houses that goes beyond an architectural or biographical study and recognises their importance as the physical embodiments of imperial wealth and reflectors of imperial cultural influences In so doing she restores them to their true place of centrality in British culture over the last three centuries and provides fresh insights into the role of the Empire in the British metropolis      The Little History of Suffolk Sarah E. Doig,2018-10-08 If we scratch beneath the surface of the Suffolk we know today there are numerous surprising touching and alarming tales which bring to life the rich history of this county The Little History of Suffolk reveals the devastating effect of the dissolution of the monasteries the decline of the once booming cloth trade drastic erosion of the coastline and the disappearance of large country houses and estates Here you will also find the rise of the chic Victorian seaside resorts the captains of the brewing and iron industries who put Suffolk firmly on the post industrial revolution map and the key wartime role the county played over many centuries No corner of Suffolk is left unturned in this small book with a huge punch

The Painted Closet of Lady Anne Bacon Drury H.L. Meakin, 2017-07-05 Lady Anne Bacon Drury 1572-1624 was the granddaughter and niece of two of England's Lord Keepers of the Great Seal Sir Nicholas Bacon and Sir Francis Bacon Lady Anne was also the friend and patroness of John Donne and Joseph Hall however she deserves to be remembered in her own right Within her massive country house Lady Anne created a tiny painted room that she seems to have used as a kind of three dimensional book The walls consisted of panels of pictures and mottoes grouped under Latin sentences These panels can still be viewed in a Suffolk museum Christchurch Mansion in Ipswich Some panels point to classical and Biblical sources and to popular emblem books The sources of other panels are more recondite while still others are original compositions by Lady Anne The panels exhibit a contemptus mundi theme and reflect a struggle with ambition pride and even despair Some panels also appear to register carefully veiled but pointed critiques of political and religious events and figures Lady Anne's painted closet or architext is thus relevant to a wide range of early modern scholarship in various disciplines but is as yet largely unappreciated For the first time in four hundred years this book fully describes the closet and places it in its personal social intellectual and aesthetic contexts It argues for the painted closet's importance for understanding early modern conceptualizations of private and public spaces and for illuminating fundamental early modern habits of seeing and reading especially combinations of text and image Finally this book explores the closet as an example of the ingenious ways in which female subjectivity found ways to express itself even within the constraints of early modern patriarchal society in England

Huguenot Networks, 1560-1780 Vivienne Larminie, 2017-10-02 These chapters explore how a religious minority not only gained a toehold in countries of exile but also wove itself into their political social and religious fabric The way for the refugees departure from France was prepared through correspondence and the cultivation of commercial military scholarly and familial ties On arrival at their destinations immigrants exploited contacts made by compatriots and co religionists who had preceded them to find employment London a hub for the Protestant international from the reign of Elizabeth I provided openings for tutors and journalists Huguenot financial skills were at the heart of the early Bank of England Huguenot reporting disseminated unprecedented information on the workings of the Westminster Parliament Huguenot networks became entwined with English political factions Webs of connection were transplanted and reconfigured in Ireland With their education and international contacts refugees were indispensable as diplomats to Protestant rulers in northern Europe They operated monetary transfers across borders and as fund raisers helped alleviate the plight of persecuted co religionists Meanwhile French ministers in London attempted to hold together an exceptionally large community of incomers against heresy and the temptations of assimilation This is a story of refugee networks perpetuated but also interpenetrated and remade
