Health Informatics on FHIR: How HL7's New API is Transforming Healthcare Mark L. Braunstein, 2018-07-26 This textbook begins with an introduction to the US healthcare delivery system, its many systemic challenges, and the prior efforts to develop and deploy informatics tools to help overcome those problems. It goes on to discuss health informatics from an historical perspective, its current state, and its likely future state, now that electronic health record systems are widely deployed. The HL7 Fast Healthcare Interoperability standard is being rapidly accepted as the means to access the data stored in those systems, and analytics is increasing, being used to gain new knowledge from that aggregated clinical data. It then turns to some of the important and evolving areas of informatics, including population and public health, mHealth, and big data and analytics. Use cases and case studies are used in all of these discussions to help readers connect the technologies to real-world challenges. Effective use of informatics systems and tools by providers and their patients is key to improving the quality, safety, and cost of healthcare. With health records now digital, no effective means has existed for sharing them with patients among the multiple providers who may care for them, and for important secondary uses such as public population health and research. This problem is a topic of congressional discussion and is addressed by the 21st Century Cures Act of 2016, that mandates that electronic health record (EHR) systems offer a patient-facing API. HL7's Fast Healthcare Interoperability Resources (FHIR) is that API, and this is the first comprehensive treatment of the technology and the many ways it is already being used. FHIR is based on web technologies.
