former SNL Weekend Update host and legendary stand up Colin Quinn comes a controversial and laugh out loud investigation into cultural and ethnic stereotypes Colin Quinn has noticed a trend during his decades on the road that Americans increasing political correctness and sensitivity have forced us to tiptoe around the subjects of race and ethnicity altogether Colin wants to know What are we all so afraid of Every ethnic group has differences everyone brings something different to the table and this diversity should be celebrated not denied So why has acknowledging these cultural differences become so taboo In The Coloring Book Colin a native New Yorker tackles this issue head on while taking us on a trip through the insane melting pot of 1970s Brooklyn the many many dive bars of 1980s Manhattan the comedy scene of the 1990s and post 9 11 America He mixes his incredibly candid and hilarious personal experiences with no holds barred observations to definitively decide at least in his own mind which stereotypes are funny which stereotypes are based on truths which have become totally distorted over time and which are actually offensive to each group and why As it pokes holes in the tapestry of fear that has overtaken discussions about race The Coloring Book serves as an antidote to our paralysis when it comes to laughing at ourselves and others Sobotta Anatomy Coloring Book ENGLISCH/LATEIN Oliver Kretz, Ketan

Sixty Miles Upriver Richard E. Ocejo, 2024-04-23 An unvarnished portrait of gentrification in an underprivileged majority minority small city Newburgh is a small postindustrial city of some twenty eight thousand people located sixty miles north of New York City in the Hudson River Valley Like many other similarly sized cities across America it has been beset with poverty and crime after decades of decline with few opportunities for its predominantly minority residents Sixty Miles Upriver tells the story of how Newburgh started gentrifying describing what happens when White creative professionals seek out racially diverse and working class communities and revealing how gentrification is increasingly happening outside large city centers in places where it unfolds in new ways As New York City's housing market becomes too expensive for even the middle class many urbanites are bypassing the suburbs and moving to smaller cities like Newburgh where housing is affordable and historic Richard Ocejo takes readers into the lives of these newcomers examining the different ways they navigate racial difference and inequality among Newburgh's much less privileged local residents and showing how stakeholders in the city's revitalization reframe themselves and gentrification to cast the displacement they cause to minority groups in a positive light An intimate exploration of the moral dilemma at the heart of gentrification Sixty Miles Upriver explains how progressive White gentrifiers justify controversial urban changes as morally good and how their actions carry profound and lasting consequences for vulnerable residents of color
