Language and Muslim Immigrant Childhoods Inmaculada Ma García-Sánchez, 2014-06-03 Language and Muslim Immigrant Childhoods Documenting the everyday lives of Moroccan immigrant children in Spain this in depth study considers how its subjects navigate the social and political landscapes of family neighborhood peer groups and the institutions of their adopted country Garc a S nchez compels us to rethink theories of language and racialization by offering a linguistic anthropological approach that illuminates the politics of childhood in Spain s growing communities of migrants The author demonstrates that these Moroccan children walk a tightrope between sameness and difference simultaneously participating in the cultural life of their immigrant community and that of a host society that is deeply ambivalent about contemporary migratory trends The author evaluates the contemporary state of research on immigrant children and explores the dialectical relations between young Moroccan immigrants everyday social interactions and the broader cultural logic and socio political discourses arising from integration and inclusion of the Muslim communities Her work focuses in particular on children's modes of communication with teachers peers family members friends doctors and religious figures in a society where Muslim immigrants are subject to increasing state surveillance The project underscores the central relevance of studying immigrant children's day to day experience and linguistic praxis in tracing how the forces at work in transnational diasporic settings have an impact on their sense of belonging charting the links between the immediate contexts of their daily lives and their emerging processes of identification

The Unsettling of Europe Peter Gatrell, 2019-08-27 An acclaimed historian examines postwar migration's fundamental role in shaping modern Europe Migration is perhaps the most pressing issue of our time and it has completely decentered European politics in recent years But as we consider the current refugee crisis acclaimed historian Peter Gatrell reminds us that the history of Europe has always been one of people on the move The end of World War II left Europe in a state of confusion with many Europeans virtually stateless Later as former colonial states gained national independence colonists and their supporters migrated to often unwelcoming metropolises The collapse of communism in 1989 marked another fundamental turning point Gatrell places migration at the center of post war European history and the aspirations of migrants themselves at the center of the story of migration This is an urgent history that will reshape our understanding of modern Europe

Foodscapes, Foodfields, and Identities in Yucatán Steffan Igor Ayora Díaz, 2012 The state of Yucatán has its own distinct culinary tradition and local people are constantly thinking and talking about food They use it as a vehicle for social relations but also to distinguish themselves from Mexicans This book examines the politics surrounding regional cuisine as the author argues that Yucatecan gastronomy has been created and promoted in an effort to affirm the identity of a regional people and to oppose the hegemonic force of central Mexican cultural icons and forms In particular Yucatecan gastronomy counters the homogenizing drive of a national cuisine based on dominant central Mexican appetencies and defies the image of Mexican national cuisine as rooted in indigenous traditions Drawing on post structural and postcolonial theory the author proposes that Yucatecan gastronomy having successfully gained a reputation as distinct and distant from Mexican cuisine is a bifurcation from regional culinary practices However the author warns this leads to a double paradoxical situation that divides the nation while a national cuisine attempts to silence regional cultural diversity the fissures in the project of a homogeneous regional identity are revealed

Representing 21st-Century Migration in Europe Nelson González Ortega, Ana Belén Martínez García, 2022-02-11 The 21st century has witnessed some of the largest human migrations in history Europe in particular has seen a major influx of refugees redefining notions of borders and national identity This interdisciplinary volume brings together leading international scholars of migration from perspectives as varied as literature linguistics area and cultural studies media and communication visual arts and film studies Together they offer innovative interpretations of migrants and contemporary migration to Europe enriching today's political and media landscape and engaging with the ongoing debate on forced mobility and rights of both extra European migrants and European citizens
