Teaching American Studies Elizabeth A. Duclos-Orsello, Joseph B. Entin, Rebecca Hill, 2021-08-17 What if American Studies is defined not so much in the pages of the most cutting edge publications but through what happens in our classrooms and other learning spaces In Teaching American Studies Elizabeth Duclos Orsello Joseph Entin and Rebecca Hill ask a diverse group of American Studies educators to respond to that question by writing chapters about teaching that use a classroom activity or a particular course to reflect on the state of the field of American Studies Teaching American Studies speaks to teachers with a wide range of relationships to the field To start it is a useful how to guide for faculty who might be new to or unfamiliar with American Studies Each author brings the reader into their classes to offer specific concrete details about their pedagogical practice and their students learning The resulting chapters connect theory and educational action as well as share challenges difficulties and lessons learned The volume also provides a collective impression of American Studies from the point of view of students and teachers What primary and secondary texts and what theoretical challenges and issues do faculty use to organize their teaching How does the teaching we do respond to our institutional and educational contexts How do our experiences and those of our students challenge or change our understanding of American Studies Chapters in this collection discuss teaching a broad range of materials from memoirs and novels by Anne Moody and Octavia Butler to cutting edge cultural theory to the widely used collection Keywords for American Cultural Studies But the chapters in this collection are also about dancing eating and walking around a campus to view statues and gravestones They are about teaching during the era of Donald Trump Black Lives Matter and giving up authority in the classroom Teaching American Studies is both a new way to think about American Studies and a timely collection of effective ways to teach about race gender sexuality and power in a moment of political polarization and intense public scrutiny of universities

Class, Race, and Marxism David R. Roediger, 2019-10-08 Winner of the Working Class Studies Association C L R James Award Seen as a pioneering figure in the critical study of whiteness US historian David Roediger has sometimes received criticism and praise alleging that he left Marxism behind in order to work on questions of identity This volume collects his recent and new work implicitly and explicitly challenging such a view In his historical studies of the intersections of race settler colonialism and slavery in his major essay with Elizabeth Esch on race and the management of labor in his detailing of the origins of critical studies of whiteness within Marxism and in his reflections on the history of solidarity Roediger argues that racial division is part of not only of the history of capitalism but also of the logic of capital

Digital Narrative Spaces Daniel Punday, 2021-12-30 There is a broad consensus that digital narrative is spatial but what this critical term means and how it is used varies greatly depending on the discipline from which it is approached Digital Narrative Spaces brings together essays by prominent scholars in electronic literature and other forms of digital authorship to explore the relationship between story and space across these disciplines This volume includes an introduction with Marie Laure Ryan's typology of space followed by thought provoking individual chapters which explore innovative explorations of electronic literature locative media literary tourism and the mapping of real world literary spaces The collection closes with an essay analyzing continuities and discontinuities in theory of space across the chapters This volume will provide an important framework for establishing a dialogue across disciplines and future scholarship in these fields

Public Spheres of Resonance Anne Fleig, Christian von Scheve, 2019-10-08 To understand the profound changes in the modes of public political debate over the past decade this volume develops a new conception of public spheres as spaces of resonance emerging from the power of language to affect and to ascribe and instill collective emotion Political discourse is no longer confined to traditional media but increasingly takes place in fragmented and digital public spheres At the same time the modes of political engagement have changed discourse is said to increasingly rely on strategies of emotionalization and to be deeply affective at its core This book meticulously shows how public spheres are rooted in the emotional bodily and affective dimensions of language and how language in its capacity to affect and to be affected produces those dynamics of affective resonance that characterize contemporary forms of political debate It brings together scholars from the humanities and social sciences and focuses on two fields of inquiry publics politics and media in Part I and language and artistic inquiry in Part II The thirteen chapters provide a balanced composition of theoretical and methodological considerations focusing on highly illustrative case studies and on different artistic practices The volume is an indispensable source for researchers and postgraduate students in cultural studies literary studies sociology and political science It likewise appeals to practitioners seeking to develop an in depth understanding of affect in contemporary political debate
