Konstam, 2021-08-19 At the outbreak of World War II the German Kriegsmarine still had a relatively small U boat arm To reach Britain's convoy routes in the North Atlantic these boats had to pass around the top of the British Isles a long and dangerous voyage to their hunting grounds Germany's larger surface warships were much better suited to this kind of long range operation So during late 1939 the armoured cruiser Deutschland and later the battlecruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau were used as commerce raiders to strike at Allied convoys in the North Atlantic These sorties met with mixed results but for Germany's naval high command they showed that this kind of operation had potential Then the fall of France Denmark and Norway in early 1940 dramatically altered the strategic situation The Atlantic was now far easier to reach and to escape from During 1940 further moderately successful sorties were made by the cruisers Admiral Scheer and Admiral Hipper By the end of the year with British mercantile losses mounting to surface raiders and U Boats plans were developed for a much larger raid first using both cruisers and then the two battlecruisers The climax of this was Operation Berlin the Kriegsmarine's largest and most wide ranging North Atlantic sortie so far Scharnhorst and Gneisenau remained at sea for two months destroying 22 Allied merchant ships and severely disrupting Britain's lifeline convoys So when the operation ended the German commander Admiral L tjens was ordered to repeat his success this time with the brand new battleship Bismarck The rest as they say is history These earlier Atlantic raids demonstrated that German surface ships could be highly effective commerce raiders For those willing to see though they also demonstrated just how risky this strategy could be Covering a fascinating and detailed analysis of the Kriegsmarine's Atlantic raids between 1939 and 1941 this book will appeal to readers interested in World War II and in particular in Germany's naval operations Subject Guide to Children's
