The law governing human productive activity is a large part of what determines outcomes in terms of social justice, material wellbeing and the sustainability of both. It is hardly surprising therefore that work is heavily regulated. Part A establishes the fundamentals including the historical development of the law of work, why it is needed, the conceptual building blocks and the unsettled boundaries. Part B considers the core concerns of the law of work including the contract of employment, doctrines, main protections in employment legislation, the regulation of collective relations, discrimination and human rights. Part C looks at the international and transnational dimension of the law of work.
