with the Past Into the Future Erik Champion surveys past attempts to communicate history and heritage through virtual environments and suggests new technology and creative ideas for more engaging and educational games and virtual learning environments This second edition builds on and updates the first edition with new game discussions surveys design frameworks and theories on how cultural heritage could be experienced in digital worlds via museums mobile phones or the Metaverse Recent games and learning environments are reviewed with provocative discussion of new and emerging promises and challenges Teaching the Future KHRITISH SWARGIARY,2024-07-01

The rapid advancements in technology particularly in artificial intelligence AI have transformed every aspect of our lives including education As we move further into the 21st century educators are tasked with the challenge of preparing a new generation of students Generation Alpha and the forthcoming Generation Beta for a future that is increasingly driven by AI and digital innovation Generation Alpha born from 2010 onwards are digital natives who have grown up with smartphones tablets and the internet They are followed by Generation Beta who will be born from the mid 2020s onwards and will be even more immersed in advanced technological environments These generations have unique characteristics learning styles and expectations which require educators to adapt their teaching methods and strategies to meet their needs This book Teaching the Future Strategies for Educating Generation Alpha and Beta in the Age of AI is designed to provide practical advice and actionable strategies for educators who are navigating this new landscape It explores the characteristics and learning preferences of Generation Alpha and Beta the role of AI in education and the importance of developing future ready skills Additionally it addresses the social and emotional needs of these students the importance of parental involvement and the need for continuous professional development for educators Our Biometric Future Kelly Gates,2011-01-23

Since the 1960s a significant effort has been underway to program computers to see the human face to develop automated systems for identifying faces and distinguishing them from one another commonly known as Facial Recognition Technology While computer scientists are developing FRT in order to design more intelligent and interactive machines businesses and states agencies view the technology as uniquely suited for smart surveillance systems that automate the labor of monitoring in order to increase their efficacy and spread their reach Tracking this technological pursuit Our Biometric Future identifies FRT as a prime example of the failed technocratic approach to governance where new technologies are pursued as shortsighted solutions to complex social problems Culling news stories press releases policy statements PR kits and other materials Kelly Gates provides evidence that instead of providing more security for more people the pursuit of FRT is being driven by the priorities of corporations law enforcement and state security agencies all convinced of the technology s necessity and unhindered by its complicated and potentially destructive social consequences By focusing on the politics of developing and deploying these technologies Our Biometric Future argues not for the inevitability of a particular technological future but for its profound contingency and contestability A Companion to Narrative Theory James Phelan,Peter J. Rabinowitz,2008-04-15 The 35 original essays

Do Metaphors Dream of Literal Sleep? Seo-Young Chu, 2011-01-15 In culture and scholarship science fictional worlds are perceived as unrealistic and altogether imaginary Seo Young Chu offers a bold challenge to this perception of the genre arguing instead that science fiction is a form of high intensity realism capable of representing non imaginary objects that elude more traditional realist modes of representation Powered by lyric forces that allow it to transcend the dichotomy between the literal and the figurative science fiction has the capacity to accommodate objects of representation that are themselves neither entirely figurative nor entirely literal in nature Chu explores the globalized world cyberspace war trauma the Korean concept of han and the rights of robots all as referents for which she locates science fictional representations in poems novels music films visual pieces and other works ranging within and without previous demarcations of the science fiction genre In showing the divide between realism and science fiction to be illusory Do Metaphors Dream of Literal Sleep sheds new light on the value of science fiction as an aesthetic and philosophical resource one that matters more and more as our everyday realities grow increasingly resistant to straightforward representation
