Yamada, 2020-10-29 Preferential Education Policies in Multi ethnic China National Rhetoric Local Realities explores the cultural logic of China's preferential policy measures Similar in premise but different in practice and philosophy to American affirmative action the preferential policies evoke controversy on all sides from those who see the measures as insufficient to address problems of educational disparities between ethnic groups and from those who see the measures as reverse discrimination Yamada shows how the policy measures attempt to manage ethnic based contradictions and appease both majority and minority populations Popular Politics and the Quest for Justice in Contemporary China Susanne Brandtstädter, Hans Steinmüller, 2017-06-14 This book examines facets of popular politics that are above all animated by a quest for justice as law fairness and public virtue The aim is to better understand how the political emerges in the interstices of state law and local moralities The contributors to the book focus on the interplay between private and public spaces between morality and law and between front stage and back stage to explore how the common quest for justice which takes on state slogans but cannot be absorbed by state institutions changes Chinese society from the bottom up by creating self reflective new publics Elite Education Claire Maxwell, Peter Aggleton, 2015-10-05 Elite Education International Perspectives is the first book to systematically examine elite education in different parts of the world Authors provide a historical analysis of the emergence of national elite education systems and consider how recent policy and economic developments are changing the configuration of elite trajectories and the social groups benefiting from these Through country level case studies this book offers readers an in depth account of elite education systems in the Anglophone world in Europe and in the emerging financial centres of Africa Asia and Latin America A series of commentaries highlight commonalities and differences between elite education systems and offer insights into broader theoretical issues with which educationalists researchers and policy makers are engaging With authors including Stephen J Ball Donald Broady Rub n Gaztambide Fern ndez Heinz Hermann Kr ger Maria Alice Nogueira Julia Resnik and Agn s van Zanten the book offers a benchmark perspective on issues frequently glossed over in comparative education including the processes by which powerful groups retain privilege and elite status in rapidly changing societies Elite Education International Perspectives will appeal to policy makers and academics in the fields of education and sociology Simultaneously it will be of special relevance to post graduates enrolled on courses in the sociology of education education policy and education and international development The Inconvenient Generation Minhua Ling, 2019-10-22 After three decades of massive rural to urban migration in China a burgeoning population of over 35 million second generation migrants living in its cities poses a challenge to socialist modes of population management and urban governance In The Inconvenient Generation Minhua Ling offers the first longitudinal study of these migrant youth from middle school to the labor market in the years after the Shanghai municipal government partially opened its public school system to them Drawing on multi sited ethnographic data Ling follows the trajectories of dozens of children coming of age at a time of competing economic and social imperatives and its everyday ramifications on their sense of identity educational outcomes and citizenship claims Under policies and practices of segmented inclusion they are inevitably funneled through the school system toward a life of manual labor Illuminating the aspirations and strategies of these young men and women Ling captures their experiences against the backdrop of a reemergent global Shanghai

Schooling Selves Peter Cave,2016-06-07 Balancing the development of autonomy with that of social interdependence is a crucial aim of education in any society but nowhere has it been more hotly debated than in Japan where controversial education reforms over the past twenty years have attempted to reconcile the two goals In this book Peter Cave explores these reforms as they have played out at the junior high level the most intense pressure point in the Japanese system a time when students prepare for the high school entrance exams that will largely determine their educational trajectories and future livelihoods Cave examines the implementation of relaxed education reforms that attempted to promote individual autonomy and free thinking in Japanese classrooms As he shows however these policies were eventually transformed by educators and school administrators into curricula and approaches that actually promoted social integration over individuality an effect opposite to the reforms intended purpose With vivid detail he offers the voices of teachers students and parents to show what happens when national education policies run up against long held beliefs and practices and what their complex and conflicted interactions say about the production of self and community in education The result is a fascinating analysis of a turbulent era in Japanese education that offers lessons for educational practitioners in any country

Cultivating the Confucian Individual Canglong Wang,2023-06-26 This book explores the complexities of cultivating Confucian individuals through classics study in contemporary China by drawing on the individualization thesis and its implications for the Confucian education revival Based on ethnographic fieldwork conducted at a Confucian classical school three topics are investigated parents narratives and actions related to dis embedding their children from mainstream state education and transferring them to Confucian education as an alternative the specific discourses and practices of teaching and learning the classics in everyday school life guided by the aim of training students to become autonomous learners and the institutional and subjective dilemmas that arise when parents and students seek to re embed themselves in either the state education system or further Confucian studies at an advanced academy for the next stage of education The research presented in this book contributes to understanding the hidden dynamics of individualization in the Confucian education revival and the intricacies of subject making through Confucian teaching and learning in the socialist state of China Social Media in Rural China Tom McDonald, 2016-09-13 China's distinctive social media platforms have gained notable popularity among the nation's vast number of internet users but has China's countryside been left behind in this communication revolution Tom McDonald spent 15 months living in a small rural Chinese community researching how the residents use social media in their daily lives His ethnographic findings suggest that far from being left behind many rural Chinese people have already integrated social media into their everyday experience Throughout his ground breaking study McDonald argues that social media allows rural people to extend and transform their social relationships by deepening already existing connections with friends known through their school work or village while also experimenting with completely new forms of relationships through online interactions with strangers particularly when looking for love and romance By juxtaposing these seemingly opposed relations rural social media users are able to use these technologies to understand capitalise on and challenge the notions of morality that underlie rural life Rights, Cultures, Subjects and Citizens Susanne Brandtstädter, Peter Wade, Kath Woodward, 2013-09-13 This book questions the political logic of foregrounding cultural collectives in a world shaped by globalization and neoliberalization Throughout the world it is no longer only individuals but increasingly collective cultures who are made responsible for their own regulation welfare and enterprise This appears as a surprising shift from the tenets of classical liberalism which defined the ideal subject of politics as the unencumbered self the free equal and self governing individual The increasing promotion and recognition of cultural rights in international legislation multiculturalism and public debates on culture as a political problem more generally indicate that culture has become a more central terrain for governance and struggles around rights and citizenship On the basis of case studies from China Latin America and North America the contributors of this book explore the links between culture civility and the politics of citizenship They argue that official reifications of culture in relation to citizenship and even the recognition of cultural rights may obey strategies of governance and control but that citizens may still use new cultural rights and networks and the legal mechanisms that have been created to protect them in order to pursue their own agendas of empowerment This book was originally published as a special issue of Economy and Society Constructing Modern Asian Citizenship Edward Vickers, Krishna Kumar, 2014-12-05 In many non Western contexts modernization has tended to be equated with Westernization and hence with an abandonment of authentic indigenous identities and values This is evident in the recent history of many Asian societies where efforts to modernize spurred on by the spectre of foreign domination have often been accompanied by determined attempts to stamp national variants of modernity with the brand of local authenticity Asian values Chinese characteristics a Japanese cultural essence and so forth Highlighting or exaggerating associations between the more unsettling consequences of modernization and alien influence has thus formed part of a strategy whereby elites in many

Asian societies have sought to construct new forms of legitimacy for old patterns of dominance over the masses. The apparatus of modern systems of mass education often inherited from colonial rulers has been just one instrument in such campaigns of state legitimation. This book presents analyses of a range of contemporary projects of citizenship formation across Asia in order to identify those issues and concerns most central to Asian debates over the construction of modern identities. Its main focus is on schooling but also examines other vehicles for citizenship formation such as museums and the internet, the role of religion in particular Islam in debates over citizenship and identity in certain Asian societies and the relationship between state centred identity discourses and the experience of increasingly globalized elites. With chapters from an international team of contributors, this interdisciplinary volume will appeal to students and scholars of Asian culture and society.

Anchan, 2015-03-12 Higher education systems around the world are undergoing fundamental change and reform due to external pressures including internationalization of higher education, increased international competition for students, less reliance on public funding and calls to create greater access opportunities for citizens.
