

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist who believes that African-Americans are inferior to white people. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts Infantry, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. This change in attitude is what allows him to lead the regiment with respect and dignity.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a regiment of African-American soldiers who fought in the American Civil War. The regiment was made up of men from different parts of the country, including the North and South. Some of the men were former slaves, while others were free men. The regiment was led by Colonel Robert Gould Shaw, a white man who believed in the equality of all people.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

White soldiers in the 54th Massachusetts Infantry had a variety of attitudes. Some of them were prejudiced against African-Americans, while others were more sympathetic. The attitudes of the white soldiers changed over the course of the movie as they saw the bravery and sacrifice of the African-American soldiers.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, African-Americans were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were often paid less than white soldiers and were given less respect. However, the 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a regiment of African-American soldiers who fought bravely and were recognized for their contributions to the war.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse pay for himself was significant because it showed that he was willing to sacrifice for the men he led. It also showed that he believed in the equality of all people and was not interested in money.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings/arguments come over you last night?

The incident ended as I expected. I was surprised that Colonel Shaw refused pay for himself, but I understand why he did it. He was a man of honor and he believed in the equality of all people. I was also surprised that the white soldiers in the 54th were so prejudiced against African-Americans, but I understand why they felt that way. They were used to seeing African-Americans as inferior to white people.
