

What is Competency-Based Education (CBE)?

CBE is an educational approach that shifts the balance between time and learning.

CBE means every learner every student being required to stay in class for a semester, regardless of how quickly they learn, to having students demonstrate learning at their own pace, regardless of how much time it takes.

Competency-Based Education & Personalized Learning

AP Pilot Launched

The first of many programs, AP (Advanced Placement) was launched in 1952 by the College Board, a non-profit organization that provides a rigorous curriculum for high-achieving students.

AP Credits Advance

The College Board's administration of AP (Advanced Placement) programs was expanded to include AP Computer Science in 1955-56.

Credit for Prior Learning

The Council for Adult and Experiential Learning (CAEL) was founded in 1974 to promote the recognition of prior learning (RPL) and to provide a national framework for RPL.

First CBE Degree

Western Governors University (WGU) was the first to offer a CBE degree in 1999. WGU is a non-profit, online university that provides a flexible, self-paced learning environment for working adults.

Credit for Online Courses

Strayer University began offering credit for online courses in 2008. This was a significant step in recognizing the value of online learning and providing students with more flexibility in their education.

CBE Program Accreditation

The Department of Education (DOE) began accrediting CBE programs in 2013. This was a major milestone for CBE, as it provided a national standard for quality and ensured that CBE programs were recognized by employers and other educational institutions.

C-BEN Network

The C-BEN Network (Competency-Based Education Network) was founded in 2014. It is a national organization that provides a platform for CBE programs to share best practices, collaborate, and advocate for CBE.
