Workers and revolution in Serbia Martin Upchurch, Darko Marinkovic, 2016-05-16 This book offers a refreshing new analysis of the role of workers both in Tito's Yugoslavia and in the subsequent Serbian revolution against Milošević in October 2000 The authors argue that Tito and the Communist leadership of Yugoslavia saw self management as a modernising project to compete with the West and as a disciplining tool for workers in the enterprise The socialist ideals of self management were subsequently corrupted by Yugoslavia's turn to the market The authors then move on to examining the central role of ordinary workers in overthrowing the nationalist regime of Milošević and present an account which runs contrary to many descriptions of labour weakness in post Communist states Organised labour should be studied as a movement in and of itself rather than as a passive object of external forces Two labour movement waves have emerged under post Communism the first an expression of desire for democracy the second as a collaboration and clientelism A third wave against the ravages of neoliberalism is only just emerging
