Hyundai Motor Company Annual Report:

Financialisation in the Automotive Industry Marcelo José do Carmo, Mário Sacomano Neto, Julio Cesar

Donadone, 2021-07-08 Where presidents or members of affluent families were previously seen it is increasingly the case that car manufacturers are owned by banks and investment funds which have taken control of the entire economic life of these firms This has significant impact on the terms of employment and layoffs wages and precarious work growing inequalities in income strata compensation levels for executives and the implementation of short termist strategies across business operations This book explores this increasing financialisation the predominance of the financial sector over the productive sector in the automotive industry In particular it is shown that the financial operations of these companies through leasing insurance loans and other financial instruments is now much more profitable than the manufacturing aspects of the business which was originally the raison d'être for these firms The chapters demonstrate how there are great demands to increase the return to shareholders as a main concern despite other metrics and or other stakeholders The work studies the impact of financialisation at the world's five largest automakers which together represent almost 50% of car production providing an exploratory analysis of profitability shareholder composition compensation to executives workers salaries dividend payments to shareholders and employment Encouraging debate on contemporary economy this book marks a significant addition to the literature on financialisation contemporary forms of capitalism labour and economic sociology more broadly The

Dilemma between Quality Reputation and Risk Prevention: Warranty Provisions of Car Manufacturers Daniel Siebert, 2014-06-27 Car manufacturers are playing a major role beneath the most promising industries for investors But the changing environment of political decisions and moving values of customers influence the strategies of the OEMs The quality strategy of the car brand plays an enormous role The increasing trend of major recall initiatives of vehicles is part of the daily press and harms the quality reputation of the car makers But how can the analyst give a statement about the quality performance with the public information provided by the OEMs One possibility is the evaluation of the provision for warranty which is part of the liabilities in the annual report This book compares the applicable requirements like laws and reporting standards which have to be followed It shows calculation methods to make the impact of laws and reporting standards visible In respect to the estimation of the failure probability statistic methods are explained Finally the annual reports of the biggest car manufacturers are compared with each other in regards to the available information about warranty provisions and key figures are analyzed Annual Report Hyōndae Chadongch'a Chusik Hoesa (Korea), 1998 Annual Report Woodrow

The Global Automotive Industry Paul Nieuwenhuis,Peter Wells,2015-08-06 The automotive industry is still one of the world's largest manufacturing sectors but it suffers from being very technology focused as well as being relatively short term focused There is little emphasis within the industry and its consultancy and analyst supply network on the broader social and economic impacts of automobility and of the sector that provides it The Global Automotive Industry addresses this need and is a first port of call for any academic official or consultant wanting an overview of the state of the industry An international team of specialist researchers both from academia and business review and analyse the key issues that make vehicle manufacturing still the world's premier manufacturing sector closely tied in with the fortunes of both established and newly emerging economies In doing so it covers issues related to manufacturing both established practices as well as new developments issues relating to distribution marketing and retail vehicle technologies and regulatory trends and crucially labour practices and the people who build cars In all this it explains both how the current situation arose and also likely future trajectories both in terms of social and regulatory trends as the technological marketing and labour practice responses to those leading in many cases to the development of new business models Key features Provides a global overview of the automotive industry covering its current state and considering future challenges Contains contributions from international specialists in the automotive sector Presents current research and sets this in an historical and broader industry context Covers threats to the industry including globalization economic and environmental sustainability The Global Automotive Industry is a must have reference for researchers and practitioners in the automotive industry and is an excellent source of information for business schools governments and graduate and undergraduate students in automotive engineering

The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia Richard F. Doner,Gregory W. Noble,John Ravenhill,2021 East Asia is a powerhouse of automobile production Yet across the region national automobile industries have had strikingly different patterns of development Despite starting from equally low levels of performance and initially similar strategies countries have experienced vastly different results From Thailand's success as an assembly hub for foreign automakers and China's unexpected achievements in building its own car industry to South

Korea's impressive development of an integrated industry to the Philippines' persistent weakness: these divergent paths offer a fascinating window into the determinants of economic growth. The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia provides a political explanation for why development strategies and performance have been so uneven within one of the world's most important regions. Utilizing interviews and original language research from multiple nations, this book explains that factors such as market size and neoclassical economic policies alone cannot explain these patterns of development. Richard F. Doner, Gregory W. Noble, and John Ravenhill instead highlight the significance of two sets of factors: countries' very different capabilities for implementing policies and the political forces that help to explain the emergence of effective institutions. Through cross-national analyses of China, Taiwan, South Korea, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, and Thailand, the book sets up a clear structure for understanding industrial development and how it enables or constrains the capabilities of domestic firms. Brief comparisons with Brazil, Mexico, and other developing countries confirm the utility of the analytic framework and demonstrate how it is superior both to accounts in mainstream economics and much of political science, which fail to give sufficient emphasis to the role of public and public-private institutions or provide an explanation of the political bases of those institutions. In a world where auto assemblers and suppliers are facing new challenges in an ever-evolving industry such as the transition to electric and autonomous vehicles, this book offers a crucial perspective on the centrality of institutional capacities and political economy. By tracing the divergent trajectories of seven nations, The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia offers lessons beyond the automobile industry that illustrate the broader importance of institutions to economic growth. Extreme Toyota Emi Osono, Norihiko Shimizu, Hirotaka

Takeuchi, 2008-05-23 Extreme Toyota offers the first real comprehensive inside look at what makes one of the world's best companies run. With unprecedented access to the inner working of Toyota, the authors spent six years researching the company, interviewing hundreds of executives and employees, and discovering the company's secret of success. What they uncovered will surprise you and change the way you think about business. Simultaneously rigidly traditional and seriously innovative, it is precisely those internal contradictions that make the company so successful and admired. The Korean Automotive Industry, Volume 1 A. J. Jacobs, 2021-12-10 In 1962, South Korea assembled just 1,100 new automobiles. By 1996, this total had soared to 2,812,714. What explains this remarkable growth? The answer is complex and involves a combination of a supportive State, timely technology, alliances, a skilled but historically low-paid workforce, aggressive pricing, savvy entrepreneurs, and fortuitous circumstances. Despite this amazing ascent, comparatively little has been written about the Korean auto industry in English. In the first of a two-volume set, this 11-chapter book seeks to help fill this void by providing in-depth examinations of all six of Korea's automakers from their beginnings through 1996. Uniquely written from the perspective of industry analysts at the time, without knowledge of the Asian Fiscal Crisis, the book should prove informative to practitioners, scholars, and students interested in automotive history, international political economy, Asian studies, and more.

The Second Automobile

Revolution M. Freyssenet, 2009-04-30 The rapid takeoff of the continent sized national economies and the increasing expense of extraction have led to strong tensions in petrol prices and a race towards alternative driving systems This book analyses the emergence of a second automobile revolution through the trajectories of automobile firms since the nineties

The New Role of Regional Management B. Ambos, B. Schlegelmilch, 2009-12-10 Regional management has taken on a new role and is becoming more important This book explores the challenges of European US and Asian companies It outlines how regional headquarters can develop into Dynamic Competence Relay centers to master these challenges

Crisis and Restructuring in East Asia S. Jeong, 2004-07-20 This book criticizes the widespread view that the 1997 Asian crisis was due to crony capitalism and puts the blame instead on misguided liberalization It analyzes the case of Korea's business conglomerates the chaebol with particular attention to the car industry to show how liberalization contributed to the crisis even at the level of the firm It shows how those firms that had developed innovative capabilities survived the crisis much better than those that had merely expanded into markets opened up by liberalization

Multinational Corporations and Foreign Direct Investment Stephen D. Cohen, 2007-02-03 Foreign direct investment FDI and multinational corporations MNCs for better and worse play a large and growing role in shaping our world The integrating thesis of this book is the inevitability of heterogeneity in FDI and MNCs and accordingly the imperative of disaggregation Large companies doing business on a global basis increasingly dominate the production and marketing of the world's goods and services The importance of these companies continues to grow while the debate about their nature and effects remains mired in a long standing stalemate couched in strong black and white terms Stephen D Cohen seeks to reconcile this impasse by analyzing multinational corporations and foreign direct investment in an eclectic nuanced manner The core thesis is that an accurate understanding of the nature and impact of these phenomena comes from acknowledging the dominance of heterogeneity perceptions and ambiguity and the paucity of universal truths This approach should contribute significantly to both a better academic understanding and a more productive policy debate of an increasingly important element of the world economy
