“You Can’t Be Too Ready”

The researchers involved in this study therefore had to use a lot of gutting, guesswork, speculation and judgement to complete their study. The authors also question a strong statement in the book: 'the human brain and memory systems are built to change about as quickly as the environment of any free-living memory organism'. Some authors are drawn into getting sidetracked. Speculations about a 70 percent (eg. Wired) increase in the size of the brain in the last 100,000 years are also made.
