Submarine Cables Douglas R. Burnett, Robert Beckman, Tara M. Davenport, 2013-10-24 Submarine fiber optic cables are critical communications infrastructure for States around the world They are laid on the seabed are often no bigger than a garden hose and transmit immense amounts of data across oceans These cables are the backbone of the internet and phone services and underpin core State interests such as the finance sector shipping commerce and banking industries Without the capacity to transmit and receive data via submarine cables the economic security of States would be severely compromised Despite the fact that 95 per cent of all data and telecommunications between States are transmitted via submarine cables there is little understanding of how these cables operate As a result some States have developed policies and laws that undermine the integrity of international telecommunications systems Submarine Cables The Handbook of Law and Policy provides a one stop shop of essential information relating to the international governance of submarine cables The Handbook is a unique collaboration between international lawyers and experts from the submarine cable industry It provides a practical insight into the law and policy issues that affect the protection of submarine cables as well as the laying maintenance and operation of such cables In addition the law and policy issues in relation to other special purpose cables such as power cables marine scientific research cables military cables and offshore energy cables are also addressed

The Global Politics of Science and Technology - Vol. 2 Maximilian Mayer, Mariana Carpes, Ruth Knoblich, 2014-08-20 An increasing number of scholars have begun to see science and technology as relevant issues in International Relations IR acknowledging the impact of material elements technical instruments and scientific practices on international security statehood and global governance This two volume collection brings the debate about science and technology to the center of International Relations It shows how integrating science and technology translates into novel analytical frameworks conceptual approaches and empirical puzzles and thereby offers a state of the art review of various methodological and theoretical ways in which sciences and technologies matter for the study of international affairs and world politics The authors not only offer a set of practical examples of research frameworks for experts and students alike but also propose a conceptual space for interdisciplinary learning in order to improve our understanding of the global politics of science and technology The second volume raises a plethora of issue areas actors and cases under the umbrella notion techno politics Distinguishing between interactional and co productive perspectives it outlines a toolbox of analytical frameworks that transcend technological determinism and social constructivism in general and to build consensus in particular The book provides not only a step by step approach to building consensus but it also provides a framework for thinking about how to think about consensus All institutions are built and sustained through some sort of consensus The degree to which the consensus that underwrites institutions is conscious determines the future viability of collective choices and actions Democracy is in need of better tools and thinking on consensus The book provides a leverage for those involved in high stakes decision making especially where there is a convergence of governance development and stewardship It explores what is required to arrive at a conscious consensus and to build a path towards more adaptive action Decision framing a profound meeting of minds

International Submarine Cables and Biodiversity of Areas Beyond National Jurisdiction Douglas R. Burnett, Lionel Carter, 2017-07-20 If one uses Facebook Facetime Skype Netflix or any application of the internet internationally a submarine cable is involved Fibre optic cables bind the world together and computer server farms maintained by major telecom and content companies allow vast amounts of data to be stored and retrieved from the cloud Not often appreciated is the fact that these server locations worldwide are connected by submarine fibre optic cables In this sense the cloud is beneath the sea While submarine communication cables have been in steady use since 1850 their preeminent place in the modern world has never been as dominant and personal as now Recently calls have mounted in the context of marine biodiversity beyond national jurisdiction BBNJ for centralized control of submarine cables and for express or de facto diminishment of the freedoms related to them via the United Nations Convention on Law of the Sea that have served the world's peoples for so long In International Submarine Cables and Biodiversity of Areas Beyond National Jurisdiction Douglas R Burnett and Lionel Carter examine the time proven importance of the existing international treaties the largely peer reviewed science on the environmental interaction of submarine cables with high seas environments and the current submarine cable issues in the context of the BBNJ debates
