Islamic Books In Amharic:

Manuscript and Print in the Islamic Tradition Scott Reese, 2022-09-06 This volume explores and calls into question certain commonly held assumptions about writing and technological advancement in the Islamic tradition. In particular, it challenges the idea that mechanical print naturally and inevitably displaces handwritten texts, as well as the notion that the so-called transition from manuscript to print is unidirectional. Indeed, rather than distinct technologies that emerge in a progressive series, one naturally following the other, they frequently co-exist in complex and complementary relationships. Relationships we are only now starting to recognize and explore. The book brings together essays by internationally recognized scholars from an array of disciplines, including philology, linguistics, religious studies, history, anthropology, and typography, whose work focuses on the written word channeled through various media as a social and cultural phenomenon within the Islamic tradition. These essays promote systematic approaches to the study of Islamic writing cultures, writ large, in an effort to further our understanding of the social, cultural, and intellectual relationships between manuscripts, printed texts, and the people who use and create them.

The Book in Africa C. Davis, D. Johnson, 2015-03-02 This volume presents new research and critical debates in African book history and brings together a range of disciplinary perspectives by leading scholars in the subject. It includes case studies from across Africa, ranging from third-century manuscript traditions to twenty-first-century internet communications.

Creating Standards Dmitry Bondarev, Alessandro Gori, Lameen Souag, 2019-04-15 Manuscript cultures based on Arabic script feature various tendencies in standardisation of orthography, script types, and layout. Unlike previous studies, this book steps outside disciplinary and regional boundaries and provides a typological cross-cultural comparison of standardisation processes in twelve Arabic-influenced writing traditions, where different cultures, languages, and scripts interact. A wide range of case studies give insights into the factors behind uniformity and variation in Judeo-Arabic in Hebrew script, South Palestinian Christian Arabic, New Persian Aljamiado of the Spanish Moriscos, Ottoman Turkish, a single multilingual Ottoman manuscript, Sino-Arabic in northwest China, Malay Jawi in the Moluccas, Kanuri and Hausa in Nigeria, Kabyle in Algeria, and Ethiopian Fida script as used to transliterate Arabic. One of the findings of this volume is that different domains of manuscript cultures have distinct paths of standardisation, so that orthography tends to develop its own standardisation principles irrespective of norms applied to layout and script types. This book will appeal to readers interested in manuscript studies, sociolinguistics, literacy studies, and history of writing.

Ethiopian Scribal Practice 7 Steve Delamarter, Marilyn Heldman, Jeremy R. Brown, Sara Vulgan, 2014-11-17 There are many stories to tell about the Ethiopic manuscripts in the collection of the Mekane Yesus Seminary in Addis Ababa. The stories about the content of the manuscripts are told in the catalogue EMTS volume 13. But this volume recounts stories about the book culture that produced the manuscripts. One study provides a general introduction to Ethiopian Christian codicology and the scribal practices in evidence in the collection. Another focuses on the particular story of scribal errors and corrections. And a final study provides an art historical account of all of the illuminations contained in the collection even down to the crude drawings in pencil that adorn some pages Books contain texts But they are witnesses first and foremost to a particular people at a particular place at a particular moment in time who had a particular way of making and using their books The content of their books tells us about the community's past about the authoritative texts from antiquity which they valued But their book culture tells us about their present about the history of the reception of those works among these people in order to articulate in the present their identity and ethos

Islam in Nineteenth-Century Wallo, Ethiopia Hussein Ahmed, 2021-10-01 While presenting an historical account of the internal dynamics of Islam in Wallo Ethiopia with particular emphasis on the modes of its introduction and dissemination and on its relationship with the Ethiopian state and regional power structure this book describes the background to and manifestations of the revival and consolidation of Islam in the region in the nineteenth century by assessing the role of Muslim scholars traders and chiefs in that process It also traces the origin of the tradition of Islamic renewal and reform and analyzes the response of Wallo Muslim religious intellectuals to the attempt of the Ethiopian Christian monarchs of the period to bring about the political unification of the kingdom by imposing a policy of religious coercion on the Muslims of Wallo Based largely on hitherto untapped oral and written indigenous sources and supplemented by external archival and documentary evidence the study is aimed at redressing the historiographical and interpretive imbalance embedded in the scholarly institutional and popular perceptions on Islam in Ethiopia
