The Early Years of Leadership Ian Marshall, Grace-Anne Jackman, Denise E. Armstrong, 2022-07-01 The Early Years of Leadership The Journey Begins is distinctive for many reasons chief among which is a strong commitment to honoring practitioners stories and empirical research The chapters in this volume also represent the work of scholars and school practitioners from the global north and south The fusion of diverse international perspectives allows for greater identification of local and global commonalities and trends that would provide aspiring and novice school principals with practical information and strategies for their development These include strategies for helping them to find their internal motivation and a roadmap to develop leadership philosophies and negotiate common leadership pitfalls within and outside of the school community This book is intended for use by aspiring and incumbent school administrators and students enrolled in educational leadership and administration courses Each chapter offers an overview of the specific area of focus and concludes with reflective activities and questions for discussion It can therefore be used as a companion reader for administrators as well as a teaching tool by universities and other professional development programs

ENDORSEMENTS As an educational leader spanning almost three decades I find The Early Years of Leadership The Journey Begins a delightful must read for both the seasoned and up and coming educational leader whose objective is a successful career at leading in a changing and challenging educational environment I commend the Editorial Team for providing a guidebook for managing challenges faced by novice leaders suggestions for crafting a leadership philosophy and advice on how to negotiate micro politics and challenges in schools Those involved in leadership training and principal preparation would also find this a useful text since it includes vignettes and reflection questions that are sure to generate robust discussion and facilitate the deconstruction of key leadership concepts

Abel Adekola Wilkes University The stories of the leaders throughout this book demonstrate that leadership is a journey While there is no predetermined timeline the pace of progress can be influenced by one s participation in reflective practice engagement in a community of practice and the availability of ongoing professional development By providing them with the insight and information needed to understand better the vital role leaders play in fostering school success The Early Years of Leadership The Journey Begins can assist administrators with the necessary knowledge and guidance to create leaders of learning that can respond to the increasing societal challenges our schools face

Management of schools was devolved to each school as a separate entity Each school was responsible for their Strategic Direction Management of Human and Physical Resources with an elected Board of Trustees providing Governance One of the major outcomes of this change was the effect it had and is still having on the Subject Leaders and Managers who hold what is termed as the middle ground in New Zealand Secondary Schools These people who are called either Heads of Departments HoD s and or Heads of Faculties HoF s are being subjected to large levels of stress due to them being subjected to steep learning curves large increases in accountability huge increases in work load with little training to assist them in understanding their role and with very few support structures being in place to assist them This research project was undertaken in an attempt to understand the main issues for existing HoD s HoF s and to formulate solutions to the identified issues

Schools Making A Difference Thrupp, Martin,1999-05-01 Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school s student intake has much effect on individual achievement Schools Making a Difference Let s Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education

An Examination of the Issues Facing Heads of Departments in New Zealand Secondary Schools Alan Stephenson,Unitec New Zealand,2010 The findings of this thesis indicate that the role of an HoD has issues resulting from and pertaining to the intensification of demands within the role that have occurred since the inception of Tomorrow s Schools Government of New Zealand 1988 the issues identified by the participants were the lack of leadership training that is provided for them As a subject based instructional leader they identified being provided with ongoing subject based professional development however the participants also unanimously identified the lack of leadership training despite it being an important aspect of their multi natured role The lack of time available to complete tasks in especially in the area of compliance meant that they had difficulty in completing these tasks to a level that met their own professional standards The time constraints facing the participating HoD also led to tension within the role as tasks they are required to complete were by their very nature in competition with one another
