Making And Remaking Asian America Through Immigration Policy 1850 1990:

Making and Remaking Asian America Through Immigration Policy, 1850-1990 Bill Ong Hing, 1993-01-01 In 1882 Congress enacted immigration legislation excluding idiots lunatics and Chinese laborers Eventually a series of laws restricted the entry of every Asian group though over a period of decades these laws were repealed one by one The most dramatic change in immigration law came in 1965 Though designed to encourage European immigration the unintended result of changes in the selection system was that the Asian immigrant population jumped from one million in 1965 to seven million in 1990 This is the first comprehensive study of how U S immigration policies have shaped demographically economically and socially the six largest Asian American communities Chinese Filipino Japanese Korean Vietnamese and Asian Indian For each group the book offers detailed information much of it previously unknown or too scattered to be useful on gender ratios age distributions foreign versus American born ratios geographic settlement employment profiles income and poverty The author also focuses on the impact immigration policies have had on three important areas of Asian American life experience educational performance political participation and self identity He simply questions the validity of the images of Asian Americans as academic whiz kids their communities as relatively lacking in strong political interests and the presence of a unified Asian American identity Throughout the author counters the frequent lumping together of Asian Americans by demonstrating their tremendous diversity of background history motivation and achievement As their numbers have grown the visibility of Asian Americans has prompted policymakers scholars journalists community organizers activists and of course restrictionists to take Asian Americans more seriously At the same time they have sometimes become the target of racist hostility which is occasionally physical but more often sociopolitical and economic such as the recent concerns over the disproportionate number of Asian Americans admitted to prestigious colleges and universities Serious gaps in fundamental information about Asian America persist leading to serious distortions This pioneering work of research and analysis is intended as a step toward a better understanding of relationships and experiences that few have bothered to study changes in people's everyday lives as they confront restrictions imposed by physical distancing and consequences such as loss of work, working or learning from home and reduced contact with family and friends. This edited collection covers a diverse range of experiences, practices and representations across international contexts and cultures: UK, Europe, North America, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Together, these contributions offer a rich account of COVID society. They provide snapshots of what life was like for people in a variety of situations and locations living through the first months of the novel coronavirus crisis, including discussion not only of health-related experiences but also the impact on family, work, social life and leisure activities. The socio-material dimensions of quotidian practices are highlighted: death rituals, dating apps, online musical performances, fitness and exercise practices, the role of windows, healthcare, work, parenting, children learning at home, moving in public space as a blind person, and many more. Diverse topics are explored. In doing so, the authors surface the feelings of strangeness and challenges to norms of practice that were part of many people's experiences, highlighting the profound affective responses that accompanied the disruption to usual cultural forms of sociality and ritual in the wake of the COVID outbreak and restrictions on movement. The authors show how social relationships and social institutions were suspended, re-invented or transformed while social differences were brought to the fore. At the macro level, the book includes localised and comparative analyses of political health systems and policy responses to the pandemic and highlights the differences in representations and experiences of very different social groups, including people with disabilities, LGBTQI people, Dutch Muslim parents, healthcare workers in France and Australia, young adults living in northern Italy, performing artists and their audiences, exercisers in Australia and New Zealand, the Latin cultures of Spain and Italy, Asian Americans and older people in Australia. This volume will appeal to undergraduates and postgraduates in sociology, cultural and media studies, medical humanities, anthropology, political science and cultural geography.

Asian Americans in Higher Education: Charting New Realities Yoon K. Pak, Dina C. Maramba, Xavier J. Hernandez, 2014-03-25. The Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) population continues to obfuscate the discourse on diversity and higher education institutions. The historical and contemporary experiences of AAPIs in higher education clearly indicate that their presence has influenced and reinforced the importance of diversity in educational environments. To contextualize AAPIs' participation in postsecondary education, this monograph provides a historical overview of the model minority stereotype, the affirmative action debate and AAPIs' involvement in the education pipeline. A discussion of their experiences in college, implications for future research, practice and policy are further discussed. Educators, administrators, faculty, policy makers and researchers who are concerned with diversity issues and the AAPI population will find this monograph an engaging and valuable resource.

Contemporary Asian American Communities Linda Trinh Võ,Rick Bonus,2009 Once thought of in terms of geographically bounded spaces Asian America has undergone profound changes as a result of post 1965 immigration as well as the growth and reshaping of established communities This collection of original essays demonstrates that conventional notions of community of ethnic enclaves determined by exclusion and ghettoization now have limited use in explaining the dynamic processes of contemporary community formation Writing from a variety of perspectives these contributors expand the concept of community to include sites not necessarily bounded by space formations around gender class sexuality and generation reveal new processes as well as the demographic diversity of today s Asian American population The case studies gathered here speak to the fluidity of these communities and to the need for new analytic approaches to account for the similarities and differences between them Taken together these essays forcefully argue that it is time to replace the outworn concept of a monolithic Asian America Justice and Injustice in Law and Legal Theory Austin Sarat,Thomas R.
